BETWEEN 300 AND 400 DEAD

As Result of the Hurricane in the South.

THE LATE REPORTS SWELL THE TOTAL

Dead Are Being Found in All Localities,

In Which the Force of Wind and Wave Are Exerted—There Are at Least a Hundred Dead in Terrebonne Parish Alone—Rail Communication with New Orleans Being Restored Quickly.

New Orleans, Sept. 23.—via Hattiesburg, Miss. —Official information reaching here today from the storm-swept district shows that the estimated loss of life is fully as great as the earlier reports indicated, and will amount to between 300 and 400.

Of this number, more than 200 lost their lives in Terrebonne parish. boats which arrived from there today reporting that it is known two hundred are dead, forty having already been identified.

From the interior of the state fatalities are reported to the number of twenty-one, and the revised figures show that 100 are dead along the coast outside of Terrebonne.

A fervent appeal for immediate help was brought here today by the sheriff of Terrebonne, who stated that there is grave danger of both famine and pestilence. In response to his request physicians and medical supplies were hurried forward and food and clothing will be sent as soon as it can be secured.

Apprehension Relieved.

The apprehension felt as to the fate of the inhabitants of Grand island was set at rest when a boat from there arrived here. There was no loss of life there, although many houses were unroofed and blown and the negro quarter practically wiped out.

Two-thirds of the entire cotton crop in this state, lower Mississippi and Alabama is a total loss, having been beaten into the ground and blown from the bolls by the force of the combined wind and rain. The loss of sugar cane and rice will probably amount to fully one-third of the total crop and many of the smaller planters are completely ruined.

The arrivals from Terrebonne state that the situation there is the most serious in the history of the state. Corpses are being washed up by the waves and lie in rows along the beach. Hardly a house is left standing and the homeless are absolutely without food.

Systematic work of relief will be begun at once, the governor having appointed committees to take charge of the work.

Reports today from as many districts as can be reached, show that the crop damage throughout the South caused by the recent storm is probably the greatest in the history of the country. The total damage from the storm, it is estimated today, will be more than $10,000 000.

Carried Away by Flood.

Plantations along the gulf coast were flooded by water forced in by the wind. In addition, a heavy rain made rivers of creeks and ditches. Whole plantations were engulfed and houses wrecked by the wind were carried away in a swirling flood.

Reports coming in today from the storm swept regions, particularly in Terrebonne parish, tell of the awful death of the victims of the storm.

Men, women and children fought for their lives in the flood, clung to trees or tried to keep themselves above the water by holding to bits of floating houses. Rescuers found dead bodies lodged into trees at the edge of the flood.

Two thousand fishermen were living in camp and in little huts on the coast of Terrebonne parish. Efforts are being made today to discover what fate has overcome them. It is believed that many bodies were carried into the gulf of Mexico, and that the full death list there will never be known.

Some of the fishermen were in boats when the storm struck, and it is believed many of them perished. Many of the fishermen were wealthy campers and rescue parties were today started to the camps by anxious friends.

100 Dead in One Parish.

Hattiesburg, Miss, Sept. 23.—Boats that reached New Orleans late yesterday report that the greatest loss of life in the storm which swept the gulf coast was in Terrebonne parish, where fully 100 persons were drowned. Corpses have been swept up by the waves and lie in rows along the beach. Hundreds are homeless and without food.

The boats were sent out by an afternoon newspaper to learn conditions at great cost. Reports that 300 people were killed along the Louisiana coast may be untrue. They are brought in by refugees from Terrebone parish. Many of the refugees had been crazed by the sights they saw along the coast.

Many other persons, however, lost their lives along the coast, bringing the total close up to the first estimate. Terrebone parish lies west of Grand Island, where the reports of terrible loss of life emanated. It is low and marshy. Most of those dead are fishermen and planters.

Reports here today indicate that the loss of life in Mississippi and Louisiana will total thirty, outside those killed along the west gulf coast. Five were killed in New Or-

VILLAGERS ARE TERROR-STRICKEN

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23. While residents of River Rouge village discreetly remained within their homes, yeggmen broke into the post-office, wrecked the safe with nitroglycerin, and escaped with $200 cash, $250 worth of stamps and all of the post-office books early today. The explosion was heard blocks away, but no one tried to intercept the robbers, all being in terror.

PEARY IS BACK IN HOME STATE

Crosses Line into Maine from Canada Thursday.

BANGOR EXTENDS ROYAL WELCOME

Citizens Present Loving Cup to the Commander.

Peary Leaves for Portland Late in the Afternoon To Be the Guest of Honor at Big Reception—Friday Will Go to His Summer Home at Eagle Island by Motor Boat—To Prepare His Data There.

Portland, Me., Sept. 23.—Happy in the achievement of the object of many years' struggle, Commander Robert E. Peary is again in Maine. The train bearing the successful pole hunter and family and over a score of newspaper reporters, crossed the line at Vanceboro at 9:30 a. m. today, entering the state of Maine.

At many stations through which the train passed, curious throngs had gathered in the hope of catching a glimpse of Peary, but there was nothing like a formal welcome until the train pulled into Bangor at 1:15 p. m., where the explorer was met by Mayor Woodman and the Bangor city council's welcoming committee, and escorted through crowds of cheering people to the Bangor house, where luncheon was served. On the balcony of the Bangor House in view of thousands of people, a magnificent loving cup was presented to the explorer.

Big Reception Tonight.

At 3:40 p. m., Peary will board the Bar Harbor express for Portland. At Waterville, Colby college students will cheer Peary during the short stop there. Bowdoin college had planned a rousing welcome at the depot, but this will not take place as the train was not routed through Brunswick.

Peary will arrive in Portland at 7:40 this evening, and then will occur the only big reception until after the settlement of the North pole controversy. There will be a banquet at the Falmouth hotel and a reception in the Auditorium. Governor Fernal and other distinguished Maine men will attend.

Tomorrow Commander Peary and family will go to their summer home at Eagle island by motorboat.

SUSPECT PLOT AGAINST TAFT

Bomb Found Near Customs House at Juarez, Mexico.

TWELVE SUSPECTS ARE ARRESTED

Taft Says Roosevelt Reforms Should Be Carried On.

It Is Not Possible for Them To Be Accomplished Under One Administration, Mr. Taft Says, but He Will Do His Share in Good Work. Predicts Era of Unprecedented Prosperity in Store.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 23. — Juarez, just across the border in Mexico, was greatly agitated by the finding of a bomb in a partly completed dwelling. The police were put on the case and 12 workmen were arrested. They will be given their hearing today.

It was first reported that the bomb was found in the rear of the customs house, where President Diaz and President Taft are to meet Oct. 16, but this was later denied by the authorities.

The residence of Camillot Arguelles, where the bomb was found, is located a block from the customs house where the presidents will meet. A visit by President Diaz to Don Arguelles, who is a close personal friend of Diaz, was thought probable. Mexican Consul A. V. Lomeli of El Paso admits that a stick of dynamite was found, but attaches no significance to it.

To Continue Policies.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 23.—During his brief stay in this city President Taft stated that he had decided to deliver his conservation speech in Spokane September 28. It was at Spokane that the controversy between Mr. Ballinger and Chief Forester Pinchot arose, and Mr. Taft regards it as the best place to discuss the issue.

During the course of his address at Colorado Springs, President Taft said: "We are entering upon an era of prosperity that I hope will be exceptional, even in the history of our prosperity, but in doing so we must be careful not to forget the obligation there is upon us to adopt such legislative measures in state and nation as shall prevent a recurrence of the abuses which were brought so plainly to the mind of the people by my predecesor, Theodore Roosevelt.

Taking Things Easy.

"It is easy when you are comfortable and when the income is coming in to think that everything is all right, but it is just about that time when the sappers and miners begin their work upon the foundations of society with reference to the abuses to which I have referred. And this administration is pledged with the aid of the people to put upon the statute books such additional legislation as shall clinch the advance in the standards of business and in the management of railroads and industrial corporations which were set up by my predecessor in his talks to the people and in his messages to congress.

"Now I think we have made great advance under his influence, but we must not stop. He took up the question of conservation of our resources, including the reclamation of land, the preservation of forests, the deepening of waterways, and pledged all his efforts in the direction of a scientific solution of these questions. Such a policy can not be brought to a culmination in one administration or two or three. All that each one can say while he is responsible is that his best efforts will be devoted to carrying out these policies, not only to devoting the government's attention, but also in encouraging the use of private capital and private effort in the same direction."

West Is Satisfied.

Montrose, Colo., Sept. 23.—If there were any doubts heretofore as where President Taft stood on the Roosevelt policies, they have been set at rest within the last twenty-four hours by his vigorous endorsement of the irrigation and waterway improvement plans of his predecessor.

Every time the president mentions irrigation or reclamation in the West, he gets a cheer that raises the roof; every time he speaks on finance, tariff or labor or capital, frost settles down over the crowd. In Colorado the people appear to be enthusiastic for Secretary Ballinger; farther north and west the policies of Forester Gifford Pinchot have the sympathy of the people.

ENGINEER SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

Columbus, O., Sept. 23.—George Moore, thirty-eight, Pennsylvania engineer on the Little Miami, was fatally injured this morning, when, leaning too far from his cab, his head struck a water tank near London and his skull was fractured. The injured man, whose home is in Cincinnati, is not expected to live, the fracture being so extensive as almost to assure death.

The president said yesterday that he was in constant correspondence with Mr. Pinchot and that they were the best of friends. If he has received any intimation from the forester that he is planning to leave the government service, the president gave no hint of it. He intimated that it would be inconsistent with public policy to make public the contents of the letters that have passed between them, but he gave the impression that the two were in accord.

In Fine Physical Condition.

The president is in better physical condition that he was when he left Beverly on September 14, and believes that, under Dr. Richardson's care, his voice will hold to the end. In the high altitudes he is more comfortable than most of the members of the party, and has not even experienced a headache when his train has been climbing over mile and a half ridges.

Today the president will spend his time inspecting the huge irrigation works at Gunnison. Secretary Ballinger, under whose direction the work is being carried on, is acting as the guide and lecturer on the visit. Ballinger is, in the eyes of the people of this section, by all odds the most important personage in the government, under the president, and is being worried half to death by persons who have irrigation and reclamation projects either in their minds or on their lands.

"I am afraid to show my face anywhere," Ballinger said with a laugh, "for as soon as I appear I am mobbed by a crowd of people who want me to take up their individual schemes."

At Glenwood Springs.

Glenwood Springs, Col., Sept. 23. —President Taft reached Glenwood Springs today at 6 a. m. and made a brief address from the rear platform of the Mayflower.

The citizens of Glenwood Springs had an elaborate program arranged, which included a bath in the famous swimming pool, but this had to be shortened because the president did not appear in time. Mr. Taft slept serenely until the local committee gathered outside his window and woke him with an enthusiastic cheer.

One of the Glenwood reception committee was Bishop Brewster, who attended Yale with the president and is a member of the same Greek letter society.

The ladies of the Glenwood W. C. T. U. brought to the train a large basket of mountain trout and another of raspberries.

The president will reach Montrose this afternoon and, after addressing the people there, will take the narrow gauge road for West Portal, the mouth of the new government irrigation tunnel, and will formally turn on the water. The project is half completed, and will furnish water to the ranchers next spring.

MAJOR GENERAL FREDERICK GRANT

For Prohibition Presidential Candidate in 1912.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Major General Frederick Dent Grant, Prohibition candidate for president.

The son of the great war general will bear this title during the campaign of 1912 if the leaders of the cold water party have their way

The boom for Grant for president got under way today when the Prohibitionist leaders gathered here for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the party. Alfred Lowther, Michigan national committeeman, started the boom in a letter to National Chairman Charles R. Jones, in which he expressed the hope that the anniversary parade would be reviewed "by the first Prohibition president of the United States, General Frederick Dent Grant."

The attention of leaders was called today to an interview with General Grant in this week's National Prohibitionist, in which he strongly favors teetotalism.

Locate Missing Girl.

Niles, O., Sept. 23.—Mary Cinimero, 13-year-old daughter of Taura Cinimero, an Italian hotel keeper here, who has been missing since last Thursday night, has been located in Scottdale, Pa., and John Leary, 35, the girl's companion, is held on a charge of kidnaping.

M'CANN FOUND GUILTY TODAY

Accepts Money from Resort-Keepers of Chicago

FOR GIVING THEM POLICE PROTECTION

Trial of Three Weeks Ended Early Thursday.

His Counsel Declares the Verdict Is a Sop to the General Sentiment Against Policemen—Makes Motion for a New Trial—Motion Is To Be Heard at Some Date To Be Determined in Future.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A verdict finding Police Inspector Edward McCann guilty of accepting money from resort-keepers for police "protection" was returned at 9:30 a. m. by the jury which has been hearing the case for three weeks. The verdict was reached at 1 a. m. after the jury had been out for seven and one half hours, but was not read until court opened at 9:30.

The verdict carries with it imprisonment for from one to five years in the state penitentiary.

The verdict apparently came as a complete surprise to every one in the court-room excepting State's Attorney Wayman and there was much commotion when it was read.

Inspector McCann arrived in court only a few minutes before the verdict was read. He appeared to be completely crushed by the jury's finding and looked appealingly at Colonel J. Hamilton Lewis, his counsel, who entered a motion for a new trial.

The court announced that a date would be set later for argument on this motion. In the meantime, he released McCann, stating that his old bond would stand.

Sop to Sentiment.

Colonel Lewis declared the verdict was clearly a "sop to the general sentiment against policemen," and added that, should a new trial be denied, he would at once appeal the case. State's Attorney Wayman said:

"The verdict speaks for itself. I have nothing to say."

The verdict is the first big victory for the state's attorney in his crusade against the alleged bribery of public officials for protecting vice in the levee districts. It is expected to prove a strong stimulus to his investigation, and the general belief is that the city is now on the brink of further grand jury action in this connection far more sweeping than the preliminary investigation.

The state's attorney is said to harbor an ambition to become to Chicago what Joseph W. Folk was to St. Louis and his friends declare that the McCann verdict will "make him."

Probe To Be Renewed.

"During the trial of the McCann case there has been a suspension of the activities of the grand jury, but now that the state's attorney is free from this duty, the police graft probe is expected to be renewed with greater vigor than ever.

McCann was indicted on the testimony of Julius Frank, wealthy levee saloon-keepers, Louis Frank declaring that he had been secretly appointed "collector of graft" by McCann. He added that he had made these collections regularly for months and had turned all the money over to McCann. His testimony during the trial revealed charges that McCann had not only demanded five dollars a month for each room in every resort in his district, but had arrested fallen women and had only freed them on the payment of $10 each to him.

The indictment on which he was tried contained five counts, all charging the acceptance of protection money. Four of these counts were quashed as faulty, but the fifth was sustained.

That the next objective of the state's attorney's investigation will be the men "higher up," was indicated by the state's attorney himself following the McCann verdict.

"The evidence was clear, complete and uncontradicted. It marks the beginning and the end of police bribery and police graft in Chicago, and gets us much nearer to that much talked of 'man higher up.'"

Bloodhounds Used.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23.—Bloodhounds from Madisonville, Ohio, are on the trail of the person who entered the farm house of Frank Hofford, of Cherry Grove, Ohio, Wednesday afternoon, during the absence of Mrs. Hofford, and stole $1,000 and a note for $90.

HIGHEST PHONE LINE IN WORLD

Geneva, Sept. 23.—The highest telephone line in the world, running to the Queen Margherita observatory, on Monte Rosa, more than 15,000 feet high, was placed in operation today. The observatory and the telephone line, which has been constructed at the expense of the queen, took six years to complete. The new line will be of great help to Alpinists in distress on Monte Rosa.

A SECOND QUAKE IS FELT TODAY

Tremor in France Followed by Heavy Hail Storm.

Marseilles, Sept. 23.—A second earthquake was felt throughout a large part of southwestern France today. The quake itself caused little damage, but it was followed by a terrific hail storm that destroyed the remaining crops.

The towns of Lambese, St. Cannat, Le Puy, Salon, St. Reparade and Rognac and the country surrounding them, all suffered. In several places old walls fell. The destruction of the crops will cause intense suffering as the affected section had already been seriously damaged by the quake of several weeks ago, and the more recent floods.

Detroit Is Chosen.

Boston, Sept. 23.—Detroit was selected as the next meeting place of the annual session of the Supreme council of the Scottish Rite Masons, Northern Masonic jurisdiction, at the open session of that body here today.

THE INDIANS ARE ENSLAVED

Tale of Cruelties Practiced by a Company.

INDIANS FORCED TO GATHER RUBBER

They Are Beaten and Often Starved to Death.

If the Wretches Prove Rebellious They Are Shot, Burned to Death or Crucified as Suits the Fancy of the Slave Drivers—Investigation of English Rubber Concern Is Promised by the Government.

London, Sept. 23.—A government investigation of the Peruvian-Amazon company, an English rubber concern, is imminent as the result of the publication in Truth of charges of the grossest cruelties against the company's employes. The charges are made on the authority of W. E. Hardenburg, an American engineer, who is temporarily in London.

The rubber company's properties are in the valley of the Putumayo river, which empties in the Amazon. Hardenburg asserts that the company's agents enslave the Huitotos Indians, and beat and starve them to death.

If the wretches object and prove rebellious, they are shot, burned to death or crucified, as suits the fancy of the slave drivers. The punishment inflicted upon the Indians is the most terrible that the ingenious agents can contrive, Hardenburg says.

The independent rubber hunters have been driven from the country by the English concern, whose terrorization methods have scared away all competition.

Hardenburg says he went into the country intending to invest his money, but was arrested through the machinations of the English company, and narrowly escaped with his life.

Truth demands that the government investigate Hardenburg's charges, adding that the government ought to have acted before, inasmuch as the South American press has exposed the horrors of Indian employment in the Putumayo valley.

The Cotton Report.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The census bureau announced today that 5,085,380 bales of cotton had been consumed during the year ended August 31, as compared with 4,539,090 in 1908.

STILLED IS BUSY INDUSTRY'S HUM

Minnesota Pays Tribute to Her Illustrious Dead.

ALL THAT'S MORTAL OF LATE GOVERNOR

Committed to Mother Earth at St. Peter Thursday.

For Five Minutes, This Afternoon, Every Wheel in the Great State of Which the Dead Was So Lately the Head Is Stopped—Memorial Services Are Held Today Throughout the Entire State.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 23.—For five minutes this afternoon all industrial activities in Minnesota ceased —a tribute to the memory of John Albert Johnson, the late governor. The pause came at the very minute when the governor's body was lowered into the grave in the little cemetery at St. Peter, where the bodies of his parents will lie.

At 9:15 a. m., ten companies of state militia marched up to the state capitol building, and the body of the late governor was removed from the rotunda where it had lain in state for twenty-four hours and where 80,000 persons had viewed it. There were no religious services in the capitol building, the troops and a band of 100 pieces escorting the corpse to the waiting funeral train which left for St. Peter at 10 o'clock.

Business Places Close.

Simulaneously most of the factories, stores and other business houses in St. Paul closed their doors and the bells of all church and public institutions began to toll.

A number of prominent state officials accompanied the train, including the active and honorary pallbearers. The active pallbearers were selected from Governor Johnson's closest personal friends, including Frank A. Day, his private secretary; F. B. Lynch, his political manager; T. D. O'Brien, associate justice of the supreme court; E. T. Young, formerly attorney general; A. C. Weiss, manager of the Duluth Herald, and John C. Wise, of Mankato.

When the train reached St. Peter shortly after noon the body was taken to the Presbyterian church, in the choir of which Governor Johnson sang as a boy. There religious services were held. At 3 p. m. the funeral cortege proceeded to the cemetery and the body was laid to rest.

Minnesota Grief-Stricken.

The grief of the citizens of Minnesota was everywhere manifest today. Everywhere buildings were draped in black, while the usual busy hum of the cities was silenced. From 3 to 3:05 p. m. every street car in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other large cities of the state stopped running for five minutes.

Every public school in St. Paul was closed today in memory of the governor, while memorial services were held this morning in all the churches of the "Twin Cities."

One of the touching incidents at the state capitol yesterday while the governor's body lay in state, was the presence of thousands of school children. The schools were closed in the afternoon and great crowds of the little ones visited the capitol to look upon the face of the dead governor.

LEE M'CLUNG IS NAMED BY TAFT

To Succeed Charles H. Treat as Treasurer of United States.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The appointment of Lee McClung, treasurer of Yale university, as treasurer of the United States, to succeed Charles H. Treat, of New York, whose resignation has been accepted by the president to take effect November 1, was announced at the White House today.

SAMUEL BURCH IS THE VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT

Suffers Two Broken Ribs and Other Injuries.

Is Run Over by a Buggy in Which Charles Ingle and His Family Are Riding—Is Taken into the Home of Charles Ingle.

Samuel Burch, aged sixty-one years, residing at No. 418 Thompson street, is in a critical condition at his home as a result of being run over by a buggy. Mr. Burch was enroute home from the home of a neighbor and was crossing the street directly in front of his home as Charles Ingle and his family were passing in a buggy.

The peculiar misfortune of Mr. Burch is that he was run over three times. The driver of the vehicle was of the opinion that Mr. Burch saw the rig and intended stopping in the road. Mr. Burch neither saw nor heard the rig and walked directly into it, being knocked down. Just as one of the front and rear wheels passed over the aged man, Ingle stopped the horse suddenly, and the animal backed the rear wheels back over the man's chest. He was assisted into his home and Dr. J. Wilson McMurray was summoned to attend him. Mr. Burch is suffering of two broken ribs and is somewhat crushed internally. Fears are entertained as to his recovery.

THE COUNTY MAKES VERY NICE PROFIT

Clears Over $2,000 on Four County Offices.

OFFICIALS MAKE A REPORT AS TO FEES

Gain Is Made in the Offices of Clerk, Probate Judge, Auditor and Treasurer—Offices of the Recorder and Sheriff Will Also Net the County Profits.

The reports of fees received by the various county officials for the year ending the first Monday in September, filed with County Auditor Charles L. Allen, shows the offices to be on a salary-paying basis. The sheriff, the recorder and the prosecuting attorney have not yet filed their reports, but will probably do so this week.

The statement of the amount of compensation received by County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter, including his salary and clerk hire, amounted to $2,525, while the fees earned amounted to $3,046.23.

The fees received in the probate court for the year were the largest. They amounted to $5,061.51, while the expenditures in salaries was $3,995.

The fees in the office of the county auditor total $1,891.01, with $4,624.01 spent for the salaries of the auditor and his assistants.

The statement of County Treasurer William C. Wotring shows that the fees collected totaled $4,470.23. Of this amount $4,184.62 came from the general tax and $285.61 from the cigaret and liquor tax. The salary of the county treasurer and his assistants amounted to $4,115.

The total profits to the county as shown by the reports filed figure over $2,000, the net profit in each office being as follows: Clerk, $511.23; probate, $1,066.51; auditor, $167, treasurer, $325.23.

The reports of the county recorder and the sheriff will show similar profits.

MISSING BUGGY IS THE BONE OF CONTENTION

Question as to Who Is To Suffer the Loss.

A Peculiar Chain of Circumstances Follows a Deal in Which John Carlin and a Repairman Figure. A Junk Dealer Gets the Property.

A peculiar chain of circumstances surround a deal which was recently pulled off above the railroads, on north Main street.

John Carlin took a buggy to the wagon repair shop of William Emrich, at the rear of Clary's blacksmith shop, several months ago, to have some repairs made. Later Carlin went to the shop to get the rig, but on learning that the expense of repairing the vehicle amounted to over eight dollars, refused to take it. Emrich threatened suit to secure the amount for labor and material in fixing the buggy, but this action was prevented by the men coming to terms. Carlin made a proposition to the repair man that he would give another rig in payment of five dollars of the expense and would pay the remainder of the amount and take the buggy repaired.

The repair man accepted the proposition and Carlin took the other rig to the shop. He did not pay the balance of the amount at the time and Emrich held both vehicles. The rig Carlin traded in was left standing in the little yard of the shop. A few days ago, a couple fellows who hang around in the alleys in that vicinity and are always looking for a little change with which to buy something to drink, were sitting in the rig when John Bodman, a junk dealer, happened to be going through the alley. The fellows in the rig represented that it belonged to them and offered it to Bodman for seventy-five cents. The deal was made, Bodman took the rig home, where he tore it apart and after getting the old iron disposed of it at one of the junk shops.

When Carlin went after his vehicle, the rig which he had left in the yard to trade was missing. He started a search at the junk shops and learned who had disposed of the iron. Carlin places the value of the rig at five dollars, this being the amount he was to be allowed on it in the trade. Bodman does not feel that he wants to reimburse Carlin to that amount and Carlin threatens to bring suit

Dr. C. P. Darby To Be Here During the Fair.

Dr. C. P. Darby, superintendent of the Children's Home society of Ohio, will be at Hotel Marion, Thursday and Friday of fair week, with a number of pretty children whom he desires to place in suitable Marion county homes.

The children are brought here from a long distance, Dr. Darby says, and can be legally surrendered for adoption by those caring to take them.

THE COUNTY AUDITOR PRESENTS HIS SIDE

Position Taken as to Money Restored to County.

THE COMMISSIONERS EXCEED AUTHORITY

Have No Right To Say What Fund $500 Returned to County Shall Be Benefited Unless They Know the Fund from Which It Is Taken—A Fight in the Courts.

Setting up that the petition of the county commissioners to mandamus him to certify $500 in the pike fund does not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action, County Auditor Charles L. Allen, through Attorney John H. Clark, filed a demurrer in the common pleas court, Thursday afternoon.

In his brief the county auditor says that section 1022, revised statutes of Ohio, directs that the auditor shall certify all moneys in the county treasury, except money collected on tax duplicate, and to specify to whom to be paid as well as to what funds they are credited, but this section, he says, does not give the commissioners any authority to say in what fund any amount shall be placed.

The writ of mandamus asks that Auditor Allen be required to place the amount referred to in the pike fund, but the auditor demurs on the ground that section 20 of the Ohio statutes give the commissioners only authority only to accept or to receive any gift, devise, bequest, moneys, lands or other property for their benefit. According to the commissioners' petition filed by Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice, the sum of $500 is not a gift to the county, as the auditor avers, but a restoration of certain moneys to the county that had been drawn by some one unlawfully and returned through becoming conscience-stricken. Unless the commissioners know that the amount was taken from the pike fund, he says they have no right to say that it be placed in the pike fund

County Auditor Allen, who is also the defendant in a mandamus action to compel him to certify $2,500 in the pike fund for the purchase of a steam-roller, has until September 27 to answer.

BASS FISHING IN STREAMS OF COUNTY

Violators of Law Work Unhampered by Wardens.

That the bass fishing in the streams of Marion county is not wholly a thing of the past is manifested by some nice catches which have been made during the present month in the Olentangy Some good bass fishing has also been developed in the Scioto about six miles south of Prospect in Delaware county. The fishing north of Prospect has been spoiled by those who find the stream easy of access for seining. A fisherman passing along the river in the neighborhood of Marion park recently, located twelve trot lines doing service in a distance of a mile and a quarter.

The law violators have been working during the entire season unhampered by game and fish wardens.

Auditor's Statement.

The county commissioners having refused County Auditor Charles L. Allen's request for counsel in the steam-roller mandamus matter, the county auditor made the following statement Monday: "Inasmuch as the road-roller squabble originated under the administration of Commissioners Holverstott and Gillespie, who, Saturday, refused me legal counsel, I will not embarrass the new commissioners, Mr. Seiter and Mr Trout, by asking them for counsel. But counsel will be employed, nevertheless."

TAFT TAKES UP THE BIG STICK

And Brings It Down on the Railroads.

THE GREAT WAR ROOSEVELT WAGED

Is Reopened by His Successor in Office.

Demands More Power from Congress for the Interstate Commerce Commission, Accuses the Railroads of Discrimination, Over-Capitalization and Dealing in Securities of Competitors To Raise Rates.

Des Moines, Ia, Sept. 20.—In a straight-from-the-shoulder speech from the steps of the state capitol today, President Taft took up the "big stick" which had been laid down by his predecessor, and brought it down on the shoulders of the railroads. By this action, unless all signs fail, Mr. Taft has reopened the war between the transportation companies and the administration at Washington.

Mr. Taft demands more law from congress, demands more power for the Interstate Commerce commission, and in the same breath, accuses the railroads of the country of maintaining discriminatory rates, over-capitalizing their lines, and dealing in the securities of their competitors with only one possible result— the stifling of opposition, the raising of rates and the oppression of the shipper.

Opposed to Exceptions.

The president also declared that while he was opposed to excepting from the operation of the anti-trust law any particular class of persons—labor unions, for instance—he favored the insertion into that law of a clause which would make the law apply only to "conspiracies seeking to suppress competition or to monopolize trade."

In this way, the president said he believed the labor union boycott would be excluded from the operation of the law and the result would be secured without class legislation.

The president reached Des Moines at 6:48 a. m., breakfasted at the home of United States Senator Cummins, and after the meal reviewed a large number of regular and state troops. He then went to the state capitol building and from a stand erected on the steps, delivered his address.

Mr. Taft's Speech.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 20.—In a forceful speech in front of the state capitol, President Taft today declared that the present Interstate Commerce law is inadequate and came out flatfooted for amendments, which, if passed by congress, will make the statute books look like a brand new page of legal history.

"It must be admitted," Taft said, "that the law has not furnished the relief against discriminatory rates with the expedition and effectiveness which were expected."

An interstate commerce court of five members, the president believes, should be created to handle transportation cases only. One judge of the five should be given power to stay proceedings of the Interstate Commerce commission for, say, a period of sixty days, but no injunction should be allowed unless the whole court acquiesces. Unjust classification of merchandise, the president believes, is one of the crying evils of present day interstate commerce and the Interstate Commerce commission should also be allowed to take up the question of the reasonableness of rates other than those brought to its attention.

A New Element.

"It is proposed," said the president, "to authorize the commission to postpone the date that new rates on classifications are to take effect, provided that within thirty days of the date of the order, a complaint be filed that such rate or classification is unreasonable or unjust or provided, second, that the commission itself shall institute an inquiry into the reasonableness or justice of such rate or classification.

"This introduced a somewhat new element into the act by placing the railroad company in the situation that when it proposes to make a change in the rate, it should be prepared to come to the commission affirmatively and declare that the change to the new rate is justified. I am inclined to think this is a fair change.

"In the provisions of the law, it gives the public the same right to have changes, which affect them seriously investigated before they go into effect, as it does changes of rates by the railroads, by appeal to the courts to have the order of the commission subjected to investigation and hearings. Railroads ought not to be permitted to change their rates unless they can give a reason for it.

A Third Amendment.

"A third amendment to the act should provide that the commission may, by order, suspend, modify or annul any changes in the rules or regulations which impose undue burdens on shippers. No doubt ought to be left with respect to the power of the commission on such a subject, because the rules and regulations of a railway are the means by which injustice may be done to the shipper. There has been a good deal of difficulty encountered by shippers over connecting lines, and the power of the commission in respect to this has been quite limited.

"It would seem well to empower the commission on the application of one carrier or an individual or at the instance of the commission itself, to compel connecting carriers to unite in forming a through rate and to fix the rate and the apportionment thereof among the carriers. The commission should also be empowered to prescribe the rules and regulations under which the shippers shall have the privilege to designate the route over which their shipments shall be carried to the destination beyond that of the first carrier.

Promised in Platform

"Another most important amendment of the interstate commerce law—part of which was specifically promised in the platform—is a prohibition against any interstate railroad company acquiring stock in any competing railroad in the future and a further provision that no railroad engaged in interstate commerce shall, after a certain date, hold stock in a competing railroad and the further amendment that after the passing of the amending act, no railroad company engaged in interstate commerce shall issue any additional stock or bonds or other obligations except with the approval of the commission, based upon a finding by the commission that same are issued, first for purposes authorized by law, and second, for a price not less than par for stock, and not less than the reasonable market value for bonds, such price being paid either in cash or in property or services, and if in property or services, then at a fair value thereof as determined by the commission.

Thus Abolish the Evil.

"By these provisions, enforced with reason and drawn with a view not to be too drastic with railroads in the beginning, we shall gradually abolish that evil which is involved in the union of railroads owning the stock of another; and we shall prevent the over-issue of stock and bonds so as to prevent watering and to keep the railroad efficient for service for which it was intended. It greatly interferes, after a time, with the power of the owners to improve a railroad loaded down with securities, the interest upon which it can not pay because those securities were not represented by actual value put into the railroad. I think, therefore, it is plainly within the power of a congress in dealing with interstate railroad companies, that are organized under state corporations, to insist that, in order to maintain efficient instruments of transportation, the watering of stock and bonds on them shall cease.

"These suggested amendments to the interstate commerce law will entrust to the interstate commission considerable more power than that tribunal has at present. But we have entered upon a course of regulating railroads, and, as the laws which we passed have not been as effective for the purposes which it was hoped, we must continue to introduce amendments to bring about a law which will serve the purpose which we have.

One Great Trouble.

"One great trouble with railroad management was the allowance by railroads of illegal and a descriminatory rebate. Those have now largely ceased and that was one of the great accomplishments of Mr Roosevelt's administration. But the question of rates and their justice still remains. The scope of the authority of the Interstate Commerce commission has not been wide enough to make the regulation as effective as it ought to be, and to bring under consideration as many of the rates as it should within a reasonable time.

"In addition to those amendments to the law which are looking to a rather more drastic regulation of railroad rates than heretofore, another provision should be added by which railroads may be permitted to agree upon traffic rates and make contracts with respect to rates that shall not be pooling contracts but shall constitute agreements as to rates—provided always that such agreements shall receive the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission. In this wise, the operation of the anti-trust law against their absolute prohibition would be substituted a requirement that such agreements shall meet the approval of a property constituted tribunal.

Anti-Trust Law.

"This last section brings me to the question of the anti-trust law. While we have not threshed the whole matter out sufficiently as to reach a definite conclusion, I am strongly inclined to the view that the way to make the anti-trust law more effective is to narrow its scope somewhat so that it shall not include in its prohibition and denunciation as a crime anything but a conspiracy or combination or contract entered into with actual intent to monopolize or suppress competition in inter-state trade. It has been suggested that the law ought to limit its denunciation to those contracts in restraint of trade that are unreasonable. I do not favor any such limitation, for the reason that, in the common law, the reasonable restraint of trade came to have a very different meaning.

"It seems to be proposed to leave to the judges to decide what combinations and contracts in restraint of trade ought to be permitted to be enforced on the general grounds of public policy. In other words to have the court attempt to establish some line between what are called good and bad trusts, as if the suppression of competition in some cases was a good thing and in other cases was bad.

Distinction Can Be Made.

"I can not agree that any such distinction can be properly made. All combination to suppress competition or to maintain a monopoly in whole or in part of interstate trade, is and should be in violation of the anti-trust law and should be punished as such; and there is no room for the expression 'reasonable' or 'unreasonable' in this general view of the statute. If the statute were limited to combinations, conspiracies and casualties to restrain trade with intent to monopolize interstate trade or with intent to suppress competition therein it would probably not include within its denunciation a boycott against goods going into interstate trade, because such boycott is in restraint of inter-state trade, with the intention to restrain it, but it is not a restraint of interstate trade with the intent to suppress competition or to maintain a monopoly of the goods with respect to which the contract is made.

"I am entirely opposed to excepting from the operation of any law of general application a class of persons like laborers or workingmen or farmers or ministers or teachers or lawyers."

How to Avoid Danger.

"Take the present anti-trust law therefore and insert a special exception to the application of that law by providing that it should not apply to the trade unions and it would be class legislation of the most vicious character, but when you make the law apply only to conspiracies seeking to suppress competition or to monopolize the trade, then the labor boycott is probably not included simply because the state would not secure wide enough latitude to include it in its scope, and this result is obtained without class legislation at all.

"I am in favor of this change because I believe that the ordinary action in equity by injunction in any place where the boycott is operative can accomplish effectively all the purposes that ought to be accomplished in the suppression of such an evil. On the other hand, to employ the anti-trust law for the purpose of suppressing evils growing out of the labor organizations, is to take advantage against such unlawful labor organizations of the literal terms of a statute which was probably not intended to include that which judicial construction should not avoid including within its words.

"It would probably be more wise to establish an inquisatory bureau in the department of justice to institute prosecution for violations of the interstate commerce law and of the anti-trust law."

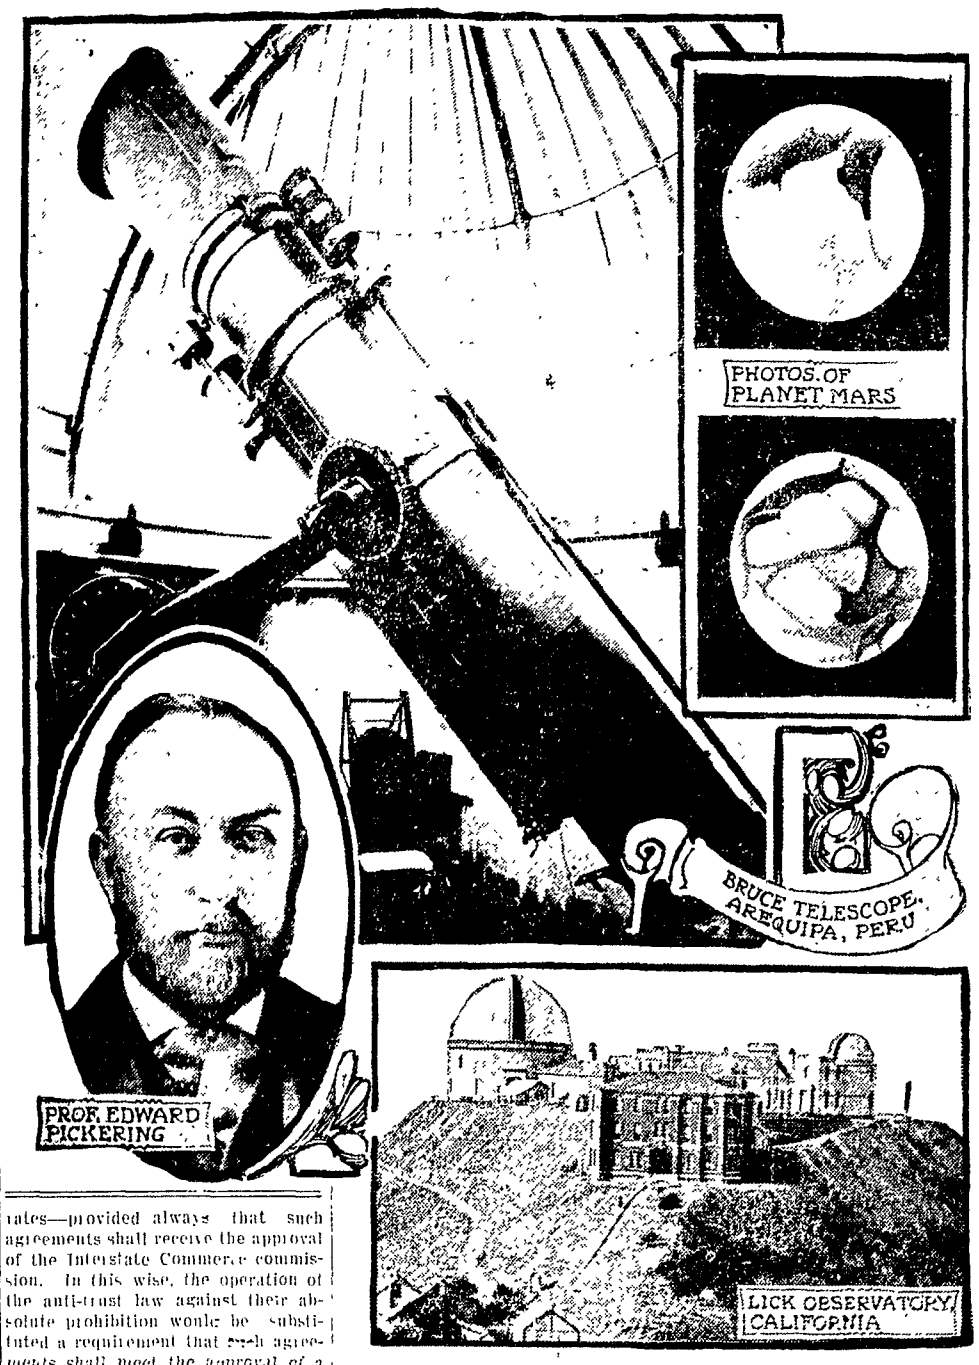
BIG TELESCOPE TRAINED ON PLANET MARS; SCIENTIST EXPECTS STARTLING RESULTS



Between Halley's comet and the approach of Mars these are busy days and nights for the astronomers. All the big telescopes on the western hemisphere are being turned on the great red planet that lights the eastern and southern sky at night. Arrangements have been made to procure as nearly perfect photographs as can be taken of the planet within the next two weeks. September 24 is the day when the planet will be in the best position for observation, and the astronomers at the Lick observatory and at the Harvard station in Peru will take many photographs. It is believed by scientists that some new discoveries relative to the so-called canals on Mars will be made during the planet's present visit. Elaborate preparations have been made for observations at the Harvard station in Peru, where the big Bruce telescope is situated. Professor Edward Pickering, of Harvard, is a famous authority on subjects concerning Mars and in recent interviews has expressed the belief that astounding discoveries would soon be made through observations and photographs of the planet.

Duel on the Street.

Gallipolis, O., Sept. 20.—William Potter, former saloonkeeper, and Dick Oskey engaged in a pistol duel in the streets Sunday following a quarrel at the "Blazing Stump" saloon. Potter was killed. Oskey was arrested, and placed in the county jail.

JEALOUSY PROMPTS DIABOLICAL CRIME

Woman Returns To Complete Human Butchery.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 20.—At the coroner's investigation into the murder of Bronislaw Kulvinski, a saloonkeeper, for whose death Sophia Kritchman well-educated Lithuanian musician, and Joseph Peczinitis, a boarder, are held, sensational developments were uncovered. Jealousy seems to have been the motive for the crime.

An important witness is Victoria Dalton, aged 50. According to the testimony the Kritchman woman took the little girl for a walk. They reached the woods were Kulvinski, who had been shot, was lying in a pool of blood. The woman poked the body with a stick and found that the man was still alive. She then planned to kill the second time she told what she had seen.

The woman came to this city, where Peczinitis is employed and the two returned to the scene of the crime, where it is alleged, the woman slashed Kulvinski's throat and Peczinitis three more shots into his body. The dying man was found by several later in the day.

MAN WHO HOLDS KEY TO DISPUTE OVER NORTH POLE

Nearly every one who is interested in the controversy between Peary and Cook over the discovery of the North pole is anxious to hear what Harry Whitney, the Connecticut sportsman, has to say about it. Whitney, who is on a hunting trip in the Far North, was the first white man Cook met after he returned to Etah with the report that he had discovered the pole. Cook reported his meeting with Whitney in the account of his trip to the pole which he cabled to the New York Herald. Peary in his report also says he met Whitney and that the latter was on board the Roosevelt. Cook says Whitney has some of his records. Whitney undoubtedly knows which of the explorers is right as to Cook's trip.

SLAVERY EXISTS IN OLD MEXICO

Men and Women Bought and Sold Like Cattle.

DIAZ IS AUTOCRAT OF ALL AUTOCRATS

Uses His Power for Benefit of the Few.

Is Unfriendly to the Best Interests of the Masses—Mexico Without Political Freedom, Freedom of Speech, Free Press, Free Ballot, a Jury System or Political Parties. Backed by the Army, Diaz Rules.

New York, Sept. 20.—That peonage to the extent of absolute slavery in its worst forms, exists in the republic of Mexico, fostered by the government officials, is but one of the many serious and sensational charges against the Mexican government, contained in the first of a series of articles entitled "The Slavery of Yucatan, Barbarous Mexico," by John Kenneth Turner, beginning in the current number of the American magazine. In a foreword to the story, the editors of the magazine declare:

"We had no knowledge before (this story was written) that slavery existed to such an extent—right at our doors that men and women were enslaved for life by the thousands, starved, beaten and sold. We had supposed Mexico to be in some sense a republic, but we find it a government more absolute and autocratic than Russia. It has its Siberias—in the hot lands of the South; its spy system, its condemnation for political offense and its terrible prisons. The constitution is a dead document. It is a government of the few, for the few, with a standing army to back them.

"Why have we not known this before. Diaz controls all sources of news and the means of transmitting it. The real news of Mexico does not get across the border. Diaz is an able autocrat who has policed his country well, used his power for the benefit of the few and neglected the welfare of the great body of the people. In Mexico they say: 'After him the deluge, if, indeed, he is not swept away by it.'"

Stories of Refugees.

The author declares he was led to make his investigations by the stories told him by a number of political refugees who had been arrested and thrown into jails in the United States at the instigation of the Mexican government on the charge that they were fomenting revolt against Mexico. In part, he says:

"I found Mexico to be a country with a written constitution and written laws as fair as our own, but with neither the constitution nor the laws in operation. Mexico is a country without political freedom, without freedom of speech, without a free press, without a free ballot, without a jury system, without political parties. It is a land where there has been no contest for the office of the president for more than a generation, where the executive rules all things by means of a standing army, where political offices are sold for a fixed price, where the public school system in vast country districts is abolished because a governor needs the money. I found Mexico to be a land where the people are poor because they have no rights, where peonage is the rule for the great mass, and where actual chattel slavery obtains for hundreds of thousands. Finally, I found that the people do not idolize their president, that the tide of opposition, dammed and held back as it has been by the army and the secret police, is raising to a height where it must shortly overflow the dam. Mexicans of all classes and affiliations agree that their country is hurrying toward a general revolution in favor of democracy: if not a revolution in the time of Diaz, for Diaz is old and is expected soon to pass, then a revolution after Diaz."

Slavery Is Found.

Turner declares he found the first traces of slavery in Yucatan, where the soil is adapted to the growing of a century plant which produces henequen, or sisal hemp. The annual export of henequen from this state amounts to 250,000,000 pounds, the vast majority being raised by fifty henequen kings, who hold 100,000 men and women in actual slavery. On the pretense that he wished to buy a henequen plantation during the panic of 1907, Turner says he secured the confidence of a number of these henequen raisers.

The slaves in Yucatan, he classifies as being 5,000 Yaqui Indians, imported from Sonora, 300 Chinese and between 100,000 and 125,000 native Mayas, who formerly owned the land. The slave owners, Turner declares, do not call the system slavery. They call it enforced service for debt. They have trained agents whose sole duty it is to get men and women into their debt.

Once a man is in debt, he is seized and set to work on the henequen plantations. He is never paid wages. All he "earns" is credited to his debt and to his living expenses. The living expenses always equal the amount he earns, so that the debt is never cancelled. Not only is the debtor held in slavery, but his entire family, his children and their children. Once a man falls into the hands of the henequen kings, his race becomes a race of slaves. As "enforced workers for debt," the debt may be transferred and the slave go to the new holder of the obligation, the current price for the debts, no matter how small or how large, is $1,000, the price of the human being.

Indians Dying Off.

One planter declared Yaqui Indians die faster than they are born in this kind of captivity, and that paid agents are in the land of the Yaqui people, actually importing them as slaves under the debtor law. Five hundred Yaqui Indians a month are said thus to be sold into slavery.

To make these slaves work, the worst kind of tortures are inflicted upon them, according to the writer. Men are literally beaten to death and women are made the mistresses of their masters. The method of beating the slaves is about the same in all parts. A slave is forced to throw his arms about the neck of a giant Chinaman, who leans forward, holding the slave in the air, while he is lashed with a wet rope. Turner declares many die under the lash.

The slaves, according to the author, are forced to arise at 3:45 each morning and get to work as soon as they can see. Their duties are arduous and at the first signs of a let-up, the slaves are beaten by foremen, each of whom is armed with a heavy stick. Each slave is beaten unless he does an allotted amount each day, and as this amount is so fixed that a man cannot do it alone, he is forced to call upon his wife and children to assist him, to save him from a beating. Thus an entire family is compelled to do work for the masters. The homes of these slaves are said to be vile dens and the food furnished to them by their masters so bad no one can eat it unless forced to do so by absolute hunger.

COOK DOES NOT STEAL HIS PLAN

They Are His Own Today Says Professor Taylor.

COOK MAKES THEM SEVEN YEARS AGO

And at That Time He Tells Them to Taylor.

The Doctor Follows, Practically in Every Detail, the Plans He Outlines to Taylor When They Are Members of a Committee of the Arctic Club of New York City in His Dash to the Pole.

San Francisco, Sept. 20.—The charge that Dr. Frederick A. Cook made use of the plans Commander Peary had formulated for his dash to the pole, is emphatically denied by Frederick Taylor, the Pacific coast manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who, in an interview today, said:

"Dr. Cook outlined to me seven years ago, while we were members of the executive committee of the Arctic club in New York, his plans for reaching the pole. I see that he has followed, practically in every detail, the plans he outlined in his dash and in making the discovery."

This, according to Taylor, does away with the charge that Dr. Cook used Peary's plans, for it is said Peary's plans were not made seven years ago, when Cook announced his.

Taylor says he is a close personal friend of both Cook and Peary and declares he does not doubt that both the explorers reached the pole.

"Cook and Peary are reasonably good friends," Taylor said, "and not the enemies they have been pictured as being; at least, they were when I knew them. I know that Cook stood by Peary in private matters when there was no call upon him but friendship. The men are nearly opposite in temperament. Cook is modest and unassuming, desiring to keep in retirement. Peary always blazed his way to the accompaniment of a fanfare of bugles."

Many a man who thinks he is embracing an opportunity discovers later that he was merely hugging a delusion.

EUROPEAN TOUR IS FOUND INTERESTING

Miss Ava Marie King Tells of a Stay in England.

PLEASING SIGHTS AND SOME QUEER PEOPLE

A Visit to London Tower and Other Places of Historical Interest. Shakespeare's Former Home and His Burial Place—College Where John Wesley Is Educated.

Miss Ava Marie King who is touring Europe with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. King, has carefully prepared a diary of her journey in which she has recorded much of interest that has come under her observation during the trip. Miss King has in the course of her travels seen much that is denied many of her friends at home and a review of her diary will without doubt be found of great interest.

The diary was started at the hour of departure and is as follows:

June 19—We packed our grips and bid our friends farewell for our European trip which to be exact was begun at 7:23 p. m. Our trunks had been packed and sent ahead the day before.

June 20—On our way to New York by way of the New York Central road we saw much of interest. There are many beautiful hills and valleys in the state of New York. The trip along the Hudson river between Albany and New York is one continuous panorama of magnificent beauty, the broad river with numerous boats large and small, and the hills forming a background covered with green. Here and there, towns and villages dot the landscape and it is all very pretty. We arrived in New York at 3:45 p. m.

June 21—We went to Hoboken through the tube to arrange baggage on board ship. Spent balance of day shopping, crossed the Brooklyn bridge and returned to New York by way of Williamsburg bridge. Spent night at Belmont hotel on fifteenth floor where we enjoyed plenty of fresh air, although the streets below were dreadfully hot.

June 22—Sailed for Europe on Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Weather beautiful and did not get sick. The sight when leaving New York harbor was simply magnificent. It was interesting to see the harbor pilot leave our ship in a small boat, just after passing Sandy Hook. He was rowed by two men to a larger boat laying at anchor to wait for the next incoming ship. The entrance to New York harbor is so full of sunken rocks that a ship is only safe in the hands of a pilot who has spent a number of years studying the exact location of these rocks.

June 23—Nothing in sight but blue water and sky. Warm and sultry. Amused at steerage passengers. Happy, although some are very filthy. Lost one of our propeller blades which caused the ship to shake very much. It was necessary to slow down the engines to prevent the quivering of the ship. This will make us late reaching port.

June 24—It rained last night and is cooler this morning. No boats in sight or anything else, but water and sky. We find our ship running about fifty miles a day under its regular speed.

June 25—A little warmer and a fog, which turned into mist and rain.

June 26—More fog and mist, a little warmer, nothing in sight but water.

June 27—Sunshine and pleasant in morning. Rain and cooler in afternoon. Nothing in sight but water.

June 28—Clear and cold. Saw first ship since leaving New York. Sea gulls are following our ship. Sighted Scilly Islands about noon, and a little later the mainland of England. About 10 p. m. landed at Plymouth twelve hours late. The harbor was so shallow that our ship could not enter port. Sixty-one passengers and baggage, and fifteen tons of silver bullion transferred to a smaller boat or lighter, which landed us safely at the Plymouth docks. We stayed all night at Hotel Royal, Plymouth, England.

June 29—Morning was bright and pleasant. Found Plymouth a quaint old town with crooked, narrow streets, and low buildings, some of them very old. Went up on a beautiful promenade overlooking the harbor, which is certainly a most beautiful sight. A lovely sheet of water dotted with islands, surrounded by beautiful hills covered with green foliage. While sitting on the terrace overlooking this beautiful harbor, my mind wondered back to the historical Plymouth rock in America. I remember having sat on that rock while visiting Plymouth, about seven years ago. I wonder if the Pilgrims could see the beauty of this harbor when sailing out of it in the Mayflower about three hundred years ago for their new homes in the wilds of America. About noon we took a fast train on the Great Western railway for London, requiring a little over four hours to make the trip. The country between Plymouth and London is beautiful, and that laying between Plymouth and Exeter is exceptionally beautiful. Each of the small farms is surrounded by hedges, giving the whole country the appearance of a continuous park.

June 30—Morning bright and cool. Visited the tower of London, which is an ancient fortress, on the banks of the river Thames. The fort is surrounded by a high wall and a deep moat originally filled with water. This undoubtedly was great protection. The ancient instruments of warfare on exhibition in the tower consist of lances, swords, spears and clubs. The heavy iron armor worn by the soldiers and horses must have been very cumbersome indeed. The armor worn by the men weighed from sixty to one hundred pounds. The royal jewelry is on exhibition in this fortress. Several large rooms are filled with war relics and trophies taken from conquered nations. Saw the spot where Mary Queen of Scots and other important people were beheaded. Saw the block on which King Ote was executed, and the ax used by the executioner. There are two abrasions in the block so that it is evident that two blows were required to cut off the king's head. After lunch we took an automobile ride over the city and through the parks. Saw many fine buildings.

July 1—Went shopping. Day was fine. Was amused to see how the shops are arranged, many of them very small and the larger stores evidently once used as residences. The buildings are not high, chiefly two and three stories, but very inconvenient to do shopping in. I was pleased to see so many American goods on sale here. After lunch took a rig for a drive in the parks. Saw many of the nobility out for a drive. They are very stylish, but don't think they have much fun. They are too selfish for that. Saw many fine carriages with drivers and footmen on the box, and but one occupant in the carriage enjoying the drive all by his selfish self.

July 2—Day pleasant. Went to see the British museum. This contains the greatest collection of antiquities in the world. Old manuscripts dating back ages. Writing was done on palm leaves, skins, thin pieces of wood, bark, and engraved on thin sheets of ivory, silver and gold. Old books written by hand. Illustrations were chiefly done in colors with great skill. Saw the famous Roseta stone. A subject is engraved in this stone written in three different languages. It led to the translation of the language of ancient Egypt. Saw some Egyptian statuary and many ancient stones taken from old temples, carved to illustrate and record events. Saw part of several carved columns taken from the temple of Diana, also carved figures and statues taken from the ruins of the Parthenon at Athens. These were exceptionally fine. Saw many busts and statues of prominent men and women of ancient times and many other relics of savage, barbaric and civilized people all over the world.

July 3—Day pleasant. Saw house of parliament, a large building richly carved and furnished. Walls are covered with paintings of historical events. We then visited Westminister Abbey. This church as originally build was comparatively small, but many additions from time to time have been made. This building has been used as a burial place for kings and other members of the royal family, besides many other prominent people. It has been considered a high honor, to have one's remains placed here. On many of the burial places are reclining figures representing the individuals within.

July 4—Day pleasant. Went to St. Martin's church in the morning, then for a stroll in the parks and took an auto ride in the afternoon. We crossed London bridge and returned over the Tower bridge. Attended service at St. Paul's church in the evening. It is the largest church in London. The echo is so great in this building that you can not hear distinctly. I also noted that a number of people are buried in this church.

July 5—Day cloudy. Visited national art gallery. Saw many fine paintings and some stationary. Took a drive up the Thames to Hampton, saw beautiful grounds and some nice scenery on the way.

July 6—Cloudy in the morning, rained in afternoon, went to see the Wallace collection which was most interesting. It consists of furniture, silverwar, glass and chinaware. A rare and fine old collection.

July 7—Day cooler. Visited the royal art academy and made preparations to leave London.

July 8—Day fair. Started for Windsor early in the morning. Windsor castle is the principle feature in Windsor. It certainly is an immense affair. It has served as a home for the royal family for several centuries. Visited some of the royal apartments. They are large and elegantly furnished. The view from these apartments overlooking the Thames was beautiful. The royalty from other countries are entertained in these apartments. General Grant was entertained here by Queen Victoria when he made his trip around the world. Visited St. George's chapel which is within the fortress. We also visited the royal stables. They are grand. They contain seventy beautiful gray and bay horses and about thirty carriages. After lunch, we took a drive out to where Queen Victoria and her husband are buried and to several other interesting places, including Virginia Waters and Eton college. Eaton college is a very old school. One of the features I noticed was the young boys dressed in long pants, very short coats, extending only to the waist line, and wearing silk plug hats. As the boy advances in his classes the tail of his coat is made longer until the garment becomes a full dress coat. Saw Gray's monument and the identical yew three under which Gray wrote his eulogy. Took train at Slough and went to Oxford.

July 9—Took guide at hotel and went to Lincoln college where John Wesley was educated. Saw Jesus college, Trinity college, and many other colleges. There are twenty-seven colleges in this town. After lunch took carriage and went to see Blenheim palace where the duke and duchess of Marlborough live, about eight miles from Oxford. It is difficult to describe the extent of this building. It is so large and so magnificently furnished. The gardens are also beautiful. A beautiful park surrounds the home. This estate and money enough to build the palace was a gift of England to the first duke of Marlborough as a reward for leading his army to important victories in the French wars.

July 10—Saw Budlem college and museum and Holmen Hunt's "Light of the World," representing Christ knocking at a door that from the appearance, vines have grown over the door, had not been opened for years. Saw some beautiful stained glass windows at New college. Within the college grounds is a watchtower and a portion of the old city wall. Oxford at one time was surrounded by a heavy high stone wall about eight feet thick and twenty feet high. The wall is over 1,000 years old. Saw Shelly's memorial, Christ college, and relics of Samuel Johnson, also the spot where three bishops were burned at the stake for changing their faith about 200 years ago. Left Oxford for Lemington in the evening.

July 11—Spent Sunday at Regents hotel as it was cold and disagreeable. Rained all day.

July 12—Went to see Warwick castle, the finest feudal castle in England. It is in a good state of preservation. It is a strong fortress, and has withstood many an attack. One side faces a beautiful river and the other sides are protected by a strong wall. The tower over the gate is provided with openings so that stones and burning pitch could be thrown down on the enemy who ventured to enter this way. Just outside the wall is a beautiful garden where we saw the famous Warwick vase taken from a villa near Rome. The castle has many fine rooms well furnished and old furniture and paintings. There are numerous secret passages, doors and stairways provided as a means of escape. In one of the rooms was displayed old implements of war and torture, also a beheading knife. The ruler of the castle, assumed unlimited authority and did not hesitate to torture, throw into a dungeon, or take off the head of any of his enemies, or any of his subjects that he did not prove perfectly loyal to him. From here we went to Kenilworth castle and on the way saw Guy's cliff house and a very picturesque old mill. Only the ruins of Kenilworth castle remain. It was distroyed by fire during one of the English revolutions. Still the ruins are very interesting and show that it has been an immense affair with elaborate living apartments as well as quarters for the army. In these quarters were large fireplaces, where in case of a seige meals were cooked for the soldiers. Some of them were large enough to roast a whole ox at one time. Also saw the prisons, and dungeons and the room where the earl of Leicester imprisoned his wife, Amy Robrart, for a time. An artificial lake nearly surrounds the castle. In connection with these castles are large tracts of land used for their support. Each castle had its own government in past ages and to a certain extent was independent of each other. They settled disputes by combat.

July 13—Drove to Stratford on Avon a beautiful drive through a very interesting country. Took luncheon at Hotel Shakespeare. Saw Shakespeare's church where he was baptised and buried. His wife, Anne Hathaway, was buried by his side. The following inscription is engraved on the stone slab in the church floor covering his resting place:

Good friend for Jesus sake forbeare
To digg the dust enclosed heare.
Blese be ye man ty spares thes stones,
And curst be he ye moves my bones.

I saw the church record of his baptism and the font in which he was baptised. I also saw the house and was in the room where the poet was born. The building was plain and inexpensive and not large. I also visited Anne Hathaway's cottage, a small, quaint old building with thatched roof and low ceilings supported by beams of rough hewed logs. The second floor is a mere garret with exposed rafters made of round poles. Saw the chimney corner with seat where Shakespeare and Anne sat while courting. The old garden is full of beautiful flowers. I also saw many other historical things in Stratford. Took train in evening for London.

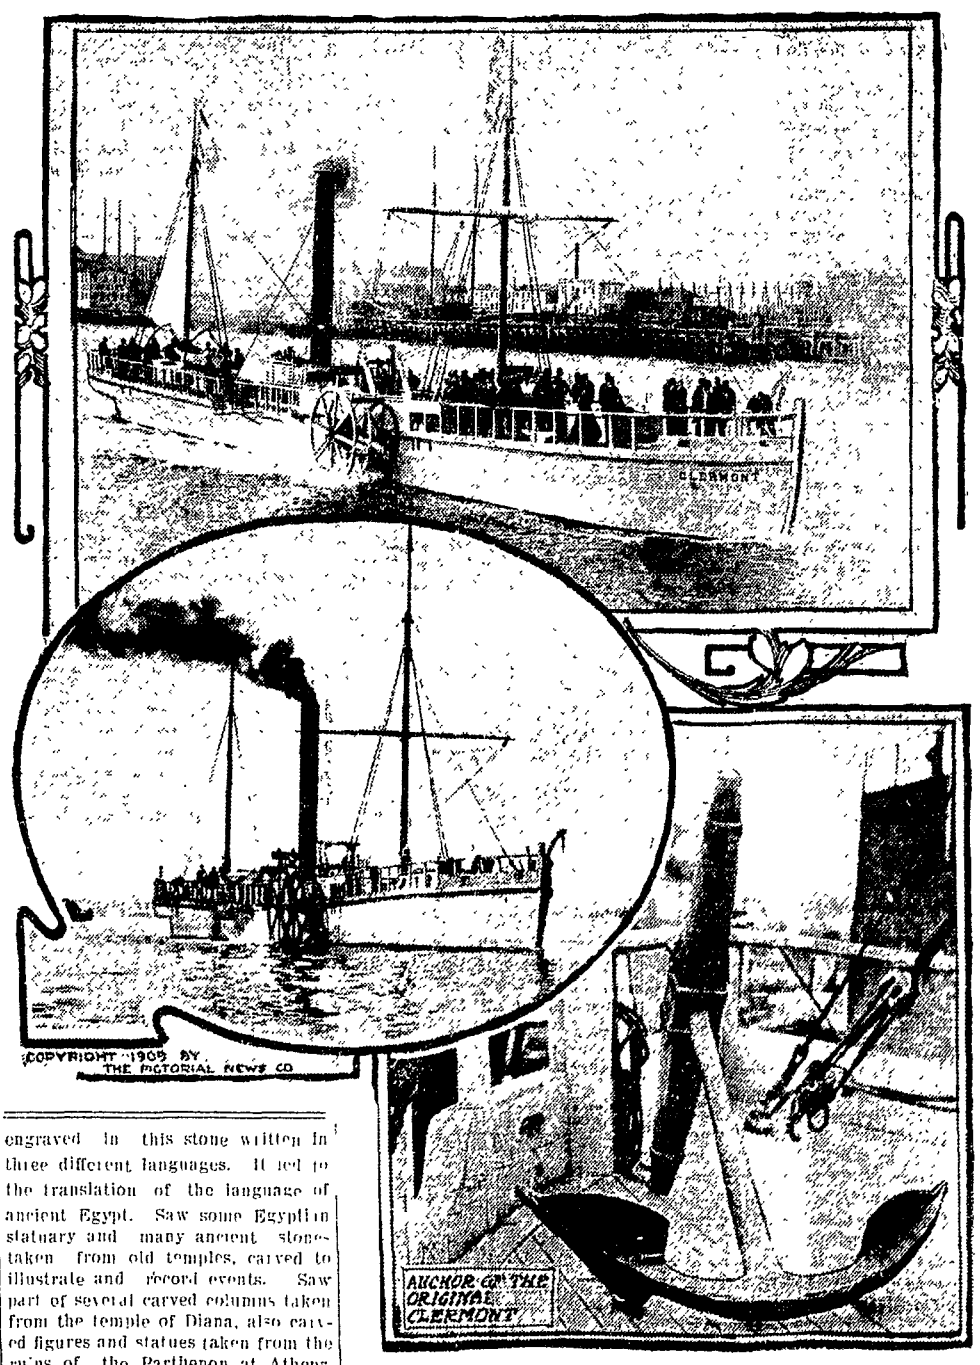
July 14—Went shopping all day and went to a theater in the evening.

July 15—Left London for Canterbury and arrived there in the afternoon. About the first thing we saw was George Stephenson's first locomotive, said to be the oldest locomotive in the world. Canterbury originally was a walled city. Portions of the old walls and some of the watchtowers still remain.

July 16—Saw the little church of St Martins, the mother church of England. It is claimed that this church was originally built by the Romans. Saw the cathedral tomb of Thomas A. Becket and the monastery of St. Augustine. This is the spot where the Canterbury pilgrims visited.

July 17—Left Canterbury for a trip on the continent which has proven very interesting. While in Holland I visited The Hague, where I saw the villa, and was in the room where the first international peace conference was held. I also saw the new palace of peace now in course of construction. This is the undertaking in which Andrew Carnegie has taken such an active part.

REPLICA OF FULTON'S FIRST STEAMBOAT, THE CLERMONT, PUT TO PRACTICAL TEST



The Clermont, an exact replica of Robert Fulton's famous steamboat, the first steam craft ever launched, is all ready to steam up the Hudson ahead of the great water pageant that is to mark the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The little steamboat with her primitive paddle wheels and hot long, ungainly smoke tack, was put to a severe test in the Kill von Kull, near where she was built and was found fit in every respect for the trip she is to make in duplication of the first appearance of her famous predecessor, which marked the era of steam navigation. The bell and the anchor of the original Clermont have been installed on board the new craft. Her engines are capable of driving her along at greater speed that the first steamboat was capable of, the new vessel steaming handily at six miles an hour. A peep at her machinery shows how wise Fulton was in his day and generation, for the general plan of the engines is very similar to those in use on modern river steamboats. There is the familiar walking beam and the construction of the boilers is along the same line as those of present-day boats.

JUDGE SCOFIELD IN REMINISCENT MOOD

Finds Many Tender Memories in Old Offices.

NAMES WRITTEN IN OLD STAIRWAY

A Map Studied Many Years Ago by the Father of the Judge—Judge Scofield To Retire from the Law Firm—Reorganization of Firm To Be Announced Later.

With the passing of the celebrated law firm of Scofield, Durfee & Scofield, following the appointment of the senior member, William E. Scofield, to the common pleas judgeship, much speculation has been rife as to the probable title of the new firm. E. B. Durfee is now in Seattle and, until his return, no steps will be taken toward the formation of a new partnership.

"Of course I am out of it," said Judge Scofield, this morning. "Mr. Durfee is now in the West and, so far as I know, he does not know that I have been appointed to the common pleas bench."

The name of Scofield will continue to stand, however, as a part of the firm. George B. Scofield, the junior member of the old firm, will, in all probability, remain a member of the new firm, which may be known as Scofield & Durfee or Durfee & Scofield. Whatever the name of the new firm may be, it will continue to occupy the same suite of offices in the Fahey block, where many years ago Captain William E. Scofield and Bradford R. Durfee, giants of the Marion county bar in their day, practiced their profession. The same legal atmosphere will pervade the old office rooms, the same old furniture and mural decorations will be left as reminders of the days when the fathers of the Scofield brothers and E. B. Durfee received their clients and planned their cases.

Judge Scofield thinks a lot of those old quarters and the memories so dear, associated with them. "I shall use my personal influence to keep them just as they are now," he said, with a feeling of deep tenderness. "The old stairway? It's just the same as it was when I was a boy. April 23, 1879—that was when I was a boy of eighteen—I cut my name in the old stairway wall just before I left for Wyoming to become a cowboy. I punched cattle two years and then returned. I remember just as well as if it were yesterday when I wrote my name there. And there are a lot of others written there. The first one was that of Thomas B. Oden, May 21, 1862. I imagine he is about the age of Scotty Merrill and went in his crowd. The last I heard of him he was in California."

Judge Scofield talked with the enthusiasm of youth. Every way he turned his eyes saw something that reminded him of his father. He loves those old law offices. He showed it in every move.

"See, here is an old map that my father has looked upon many a time." Judge Scofield was smiling that winning smile that makes his personality so pleasing. The old map hung on a door in one of the rear rooms. It is probably the first ever made of Marion county and on it is printed the names of its purchasers.

"There are not many lawyers on it," smiled Judge Scofield. "I guess the most of them were too poor."

All told there are but 111 names on the soil-stained map. Among them—Judge Scofield picked them out—are Ozias Bowen, who came to Marion in 1828 and afterward became a supreme justice of Ohio; George H. Busby, who was appointed the first clerk of the common pleas court of Marion county and who was later elected for a period of seven years; B. R. Durfee, father of Judge Scofield's former law partner and the law partner of Captain William E. Scofield. Other names appearing on the old map are W. B. Sloan, "attorney and conveyancer;" J. Bartram, father of Samuel Bartram, nestor of the Marion county bar; Eber Baker, "original proprietor of the town;" S. C. Starr, sheriff; Weaver A. Turney, jeweler, father of M. A. Turney, who is still in the jewelry business, and Patton & Wallace, merchants, who afterward went into the banking business.

"It would be nothing short of vandalism to decorate the walls in the stairway and obliterate those old names," declared Judge Scofield. "I hope they never will be as long as I live."

Robbed by Highwaymen.

Steubenville, O., Sept. 20.—Isadore Deacen, a rag buyer and peddler, while driving along Sinclair boulevard, opposite this city, this morning at 10 o'clock, was stopped by three highwaymen, who robbed him of $135 in bills and some change. The highwaymen scattered and escaped in the hills.

At Country Home.

Miss Leona Southwick was hostess to about thirty of her friends at her home, near Agosta, Saturday evening. A most enjoyable time was passed with games and music. Refreshments were served.

SERVICES HELD IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Rev. E. L Weatherwax at the Calvary Church

PEOPLE WHO STAND IN WAY OF SINNERS

Rally-Day Exercises Are Held at the Evangelical Protestant Salems Church—An Interesting Program Is Enjoyed by Large Audience Other Services in City Sunday

I have no doubt that there are many good people who are standing in the sinner's road said Rev E L Weatherwax pastor of the Calvary Evangelical church Sunday evening The psalmist tells us to get out of the sinner's road but he does not mean by that we are to run away from Christianity

Rev Mr Weatherwax thought that the true Christian would not be standing in the sinner's way if he talked to him and let him know what it was to be a Christian Indeed he might win him and thereby

make a true friend to Christianity he said Still there is no doubt the speaker continued that there are church members who find in the sinner's way—that is they consciously or unconsciously prevent the sinner from coming Christ

The preacher took his text Psalms 1 2 as follows Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly nor standeth in the way of sinners nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful But his delight is the law of the Lord and in his law doth he meditate day and night And he shall be like the tree planted by the rivers of water that bringeth forth his fruit in his season his leaf also shall not wither and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper

The annual sunday school rally of the Calvary church was held Sunday morning the attendance being large An interesting program under the direction of Superintendent L D Zachman was rendered

Rally Day Exercises

Rally Day exercises were held by the members of the Sunday school and congregation of the Evangelical Protestant Salems church Sunday morning A short session of the Sunday school was held at 9 30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock the school joined with the congregation

The exercises were opened with an anthem by the choir scripture sentences prayer and Bible readings and the apostles creed Following several songs by the Sunday school the German and English infant classes were promoted to a higher primary class Miss H Ballentine contributed an interesting paper in English entitled The Relation of the Evangelical Sunday school to the Church

The class in German under Mrs Kern contributed a patriotic dialogue entitled I Can and I Cannot The Promises and Crown to Workers was the subject of an entertaining exercise by the English class taught by Mrs Lulu Kelly Following the key Joseph Kuhle contributed an interesting address on the subject The Object of Rally Day The text was taken from Matthew 12 which is All Rotary is not with Me is against Me and he that gathereth not with Me scattereth abroad

The exercises were concluded by the congregation and school singing God Be With You

Revival Sermons

The First Christian church on north Main street is still having a great revival and every indication of weakening A communion communion service was held at the Central Christian church Sunday when Evangelist Linnell preached to a large audience His sermon to women only at the Dutch lunch was commended by the full of the representative people of the city It was very instructive

The evangelist from Ft Wayne in the same plum fashion with the will be given attention men on next Sunday afternoon

In the evening a tremendous crowd gathered before the hour, and listened to the sermon The speaker was suffering of grip and was evidently under a handicap but struggled bravely through to the end

Four were baptized at the beginning of the service and at its close seven adults came forward to acknowledg God and be taken into the fellowship of the local congregation Eleven in all came yesterday making forty in six days of invitation and they are said to be of such preparation as to make good workers

At Wesley Church

Rev H V McCleary preached a fine sermon Sunday morning at the Wesley M E church He chose for his text Matthew 10 7 As Ye Go Preach

The speaker said in part

Never was better counsel given than this An opportunity passed by never returns Life is fraught with such eternal result that there is nothing we do that is no worth our best effort No life however humble the environment nor lowly the birth but has an important part in the welfare of the human world The smallest atom at our feet must have its share of strength to the grace that rests on the tree that spreads its branches in the heavens The grasses and trees supply nourishment for beasts and in turn man But the atom must bear its full part in the holding in place the planets of the heavens Individual responsibility to the welfare of the present also the future is not always willingly assumed

"If the best effort is no given as you go along you may never be able to give it

If you postpone till the last of your life to deliver your largest message it will have lost its force and acceptability

An opportunity lost can never be recalled Neither can we do now as if those mistakes were never made That part of life's way wrongly lived shall mark out the way for some one else to follow I may be called a close friend It is no pleasant thought that we may dig the very pit into which the following may fall What half we do? The present and future offers an opportunity Let us rise to it earnestly and brave life Let us strew a few roses in the path for others to be cheered with as they pass on to realize their best Then with a backward look to refresh our memory that at least a goodly part of our life was well spent

DEATH CLAIMS AGED MRS. JENNIE FRITZ

She Dies at the Home of Daughter Sunday

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Marion Buggy & Refrigerator company will be held at the office of the company in Tax Office building at 2 o'clock Dec 4 1909 for the election of directors and such other business as may properly come before the meeting

THE "DO AS I PLEASE" CROWD

By William T Ellis

The International Sunday-School Lesson for September 26 Is a Temperance Lesson I Cor 10 23-33

The line between liberty and responsibility is difficult for untrained vision to discern Children and immature idealists wonder why they cannot do as they please I will do as I please says the headstrong person who may if he lives alone on a desert island But once let a neighbor draw nigh and he can no longer please himself Relationships create responsibilities It is impossible to dwell in human society without some sacrifice of individuality There must be mutual concessions and adjustments where men live together One man's rights must terminate where another's begin Most of the talk that we hear now concerning personal liberty is heedless of this basic principle Personal liberty must ever be subordinate to community welfare

That truth is recognized in Patagonia and on the Congo is well as in the most highly organized civilization in the world There is even a higher law than this however Social welfare abrogates many personal liberties but there is a loftier plane erected by the apostle Paul in this lesson Let no man seek his own but his neighbor's good Instead of looking out for number one he looks out for number two This means a tremendous stride away from selfish individualism When even the welfare of her neighbors above that of themselves they are treating one another wondrously like unto Him or the kingdom of heaven Yet nothing less than this fulfils the higher law of Christ

An Ancient Problem

Over in China Christian converts are very much concerned about the so called worship of ancestors They want to worship their new found God and him alone yet veneration for their ancestors is deeply ingrought in their consciousness They can see clearly that the issue is drawn between Buddhist and Christ idols and Christian worship but the question of ancestors leads them into fog Some missionaries advocate that the veneration of ancestors be not regarded as worship but that it be accepted as entirely proper in a Christian

Somewhat similar to this present day Chinese perplexity was that which beset the Christian of Corinth to whom Paul wrote this letter We have to put ourselves back very far from our present Christian civilization to appreciate their difficult position Those Christians lived in heathen communities The worship of idols was bound up with all the social life and customs of their time The meat that was offered for sale in the market place had in most cases been first presented to an idol This taint of idolatry disturbed some sensitive consciences They did not want to make even that much compromise with heathendom It seemed to them in their religious fastidiousness that there should be laid down a code of regulations to govern all these practices

Man Made Sins

This type of man which seeks a religion of rule and regulations is very common We have it today The tendency to tag little man made sins is a prevalent one It has its root in the same self consciousness and weakness of conscience which appealed from Corinth to Paul to make a ruling on the question of food that had been offered to idols

With his wide vision Paul says that this would be burdensome He even went beyond the instructions of the other apostles of Jerusalem His larger experiences and deeper discernment of Christ's teachings showed him that it would be laying upon the converts burdens too grievous to be borne to require them to accept an intricate scheme of proscriptions Other religions have not escaped this snare Buddhism for instance has an elaborate system of requirements which it is impossible for any person to fulfill and still retain the normal relationships of society Paul did not believe in that sceptic type of religion which would withdraw men from their kind He did not want to see a class of Christian Pharisees developed unto those who had merited the scorn of Jesus Christianity is not a code of conduct it is a big all embracing principle of life which may be adapted to any conditions

The Law of Liberty

Tactfully and in the free of apostolic instructions as well as of tradition Paul enunciated the truth of Christian liberty For freedom did Christ redeem free Christian obligation to him alone and their liberty to serve Him in the ways that He would make plain to them individually was supreme Monastic of this no other man complies could find for in him but the principle of Christian liberty It is greater than any detail of practice Upon the fundamental proposition Christianity should stand plant there Christian modern tendency happily growing wider very very far to result the Christians sin manifold detailed practice by the lash of public opinion but no warrant in the New Testament One man's compunctions may not bind another man's conscience Christ is not honored by machine made and marked disciples Liberty is essential to life

It was a grave responsibility however which Paul placed upon the Christians of Corinth when he accorded to them this unprecedented measure of independence and liberty His safeguard was that he must ever that liberty should be limited by love If each man thought first of the others welfare and of the profit of the many he could afford to live by this royal law of freedom Paul put it in the one word I also please all men in all things no seeking mine own profit but the profit of the many that they may be saved That is a control ling principle like unto the magnetic pole which draws the mariners needle ever toward the north

Social Law and "Personal Liberty"

Any man who does utterly as he pleases amid his fellow men is an anarchist The law rightly lays its restraining hand upon such Selfishness is unsocial He who lives him self first cannot serve his fellow men When the rule is every man for himself the result is not that the devil gets the hindmost but that he gets the foremost Preeminence in self seeking is supreme sin Let it be written plainly and beyond all misunderstanding that whosoever is seeking his own ways regardless of his neighbor's welfare is an offender against all laws human and divine Christian liberty looks first to the welfare of its fellow men

This opens the door to all the legislation that is of life attracting attention in restraint of special privileges Nobody thinks that he can do as he pleases with respect to small pox or measles or sewage or the herding of pigs Neither can he do as he pleases with respect to strong drink The enlightened judgment of modern society is that the liquor traffic as a whole is inimical to the community The local option successes that have of late been recorded in all parts of the land are merely one sign of the increased socialization of our times They indicate that selfish and individual personal liberty must be subordinated to the prosperity and safety of the whole mass of mankind In other words the reign of brotherhood is supplanting the reign of predatory selfishness

The Highest Law

What it means concerning society today that so many altruistic sentiments are being enacted into civil law may not here be indicated The theme is possible of indefinite expansion The day of brotherhood is dawning For there is a higher law than this one of brotherhood It solves all social and personal problems It is the master key to all locks Paul laid down this law to the Corinthian Christians It is the best life motto that can be adopted by anyone Whether therefore we eat or drink or whatsoever we do do all to the glory of God

There is the knightliest mission that can enlist the service of high souls There is defined a career worthy of an immortal In this sentence is pointed out the surest clearest line along which man can serve his generation and the generation unborn Whoso lives for God's glory cannot help serving man's well Whatsoever conforms to that test meet all lesser requirements The best society conceivable is that wherein the glory of God is the supreme objective of man should credit me so I spent four months in Greenland after my discovery I showed every bit of my information and all my records to the government at Annapolis He had weeks to look it over and men who know about such matters passed on it The government made any report of any sort until he was absolutely certain that my claims were true Then he officially reported to the inspector of Greenland his superior that my data showed that I found the North Pole And the inspector whose opinion is very high and whose authority is great accepted the report of the governor and passing his OK to it passed it on to the Danish government You see that was a four months investigation by competent men So my story has been tried in the fire and how well it stood it you can see from the honors which were bestowed upon me in Denmark

I have therefore no fear that my story will be discredited either among scientists or in the public I can truly say to my friends Dr my fellow Americans My point is the truth

The world is filled with would be leaders who will never follow successfully.

PEABODY TO GUIDE THE RICHEST WOMAN

The Vast Estate of Mrs Mary W Harriman

PEABODY ATTORNEY OF LATE MILLIONAIRE

The Remarkable Will of E H Harriman Containing Less Than 100 Words Is the Subject of Much Comment in Financial Circles Children Are Not Mentioned

New York Sept 18—It is declared in Wall street circles that Mrs Mary W Harriman who by the will of her late husband Edward H Harriman becomes the richest woman in the world will be guided in her management of the vast estate by Charles A Peabody president of the Mutual Life Insurance company formerly Harriman's personal attorney and ex Judge Robert S Lovett chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific and Harriman's closest confidant in business affairs

The remarkable will of the financier containing less than 100 words is still the topic of conversation in financial circles

The fact that no mention is made of the Harriman children five in number is taken as an indication that Harriman some time before his death created a trust fund for each of them amounting to several millions do as in security to be held by the trustee until each of the children becomes of a proper age to handle so great a fortune

This assertion however is unconfirmed and in some quarters it is still asserted that Mr Harriman gives his entire estate to his wife and lets her divide it among the children at her death is she sees fit

It is believed Mrs Harriman will continue the work on Arden house which Harriman wished to make the most magnificent estate in America

Here is a list of the women who are supposed to be the richest in America

FINDINGS REPORTED BY THE CIRCUIT COURT

City Solicitor Wins in a Suit for the City.

RICHARD E. TATE'S SUIT IS DISMISSED

Matter of the Marion Malleable Company in Error Against John Weston in Error—Finding Leaves the Attorneys in Doubt—Other Matters Considered During Session.

A victory for the city was won by City Solicitor Elmer T. Boyd in the circuit court, in the damage suit of Richard E. Tate against the City of Marion, when Judge Michael Donnelly handed down a decision, Thursday evening, sustaining the solicitor's contention that the plaintiff's petition did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Tate brought suit for damages amounting to $4,680 for alleged violation of contract. The common pleas court, on motion of the city solicitor, had taken the case from the jury and directed a verdict for the defendant on the ground that the plaintiff's petition did not set up that a contract had ever been entered into with the city. The case was then taken up on error by Attorneys DeGolley & DeGolley, representing the plaintiff.

While the circuit court sustained the lower court because of the petition's defectiveness, doubt was expressed by Judge Donnelly in his oral opinion as to the validity of such a contract. Where the people were expected to pay for the hauling away of their garbage as individuals, he did not believe, he said, the city had any legal right to legislate who should haul the garbage unless the legislation further provided that the payment of the same should be through taxation. In this it appeared, he said, although he was not passing upon the validity of the contract, for it did not enter into the decision, the people were to pay for the hauling of their garbage, not as taxpayers, but as individuals.

In his oral opinion in the case of the Marion Malleable company, plaintiff-in-error, against John Weston, defendant-in-error, Judge Silas E. Hurin was understood by all the attorneys present and clerk of the courts to have reversed the common pleas court and remanded the case for retrial. In his finding entered on the docket, however, the entry is made: "Find no error. Judgment affirmed. Judgment for costs against the plaintiff-in-error."

Believing that Judge Hurin made a mistake in making the entry, Attorney George B. Scofield took a copy of the finding, Friday. He went to Upper Sandusky to present it to the court and learn whether it was right or wrong. The circuit judges while here prepared their opinions on the various cases heard at Upper Sandusky last week and went to that city from Marion to render them.

In the common pleas court, John Weston, an employe, obtained judgment for $2,900 for alleged injuries. He alleged negligence on the part of the company, which then took the case to the circuit court on error. Weston's attorneys are DeGolley & DeGolley.

Error was found in the case of Jeremiah L. Powell against Blanche McClain and others, which was remanded for retrial. In rendering the opinion, Judge Harry W. Kinder said the lower court had erred in refusing to charge the jury as to grounds of recovery as requested by the plaintiff's counsel, H. N. Harder and John H. Clark. He said also that the court had erred in his general charge.

This is an action for damages brought by Powell, a contractor, who claimed to have entered into a contract for the construction of a house for the defendants-in-error, but was prevented from completing the contract, he alleged, through no fault of his own. He asked judgment for about $300 in the common pleas court. The defendants filed a counter claim for damages for a similar amount and the jury brought in a verdict for the defendants without judgment except as to costs. Powell's attorneys then took the case up on error. Attorneys Charles L. Conley and H. N. Quigley represented the defendants.

Because the bill of exceptions was incomplete, Judge Hurin affirmed the judgment of the lower court in the case of Thomas Hannegan, plaintiff-in-error, against the State of Ohio, defendant-in-error. Hannegan was fined $50 and costs in the court of Mayor Louis Scheiff for violating the Rose local-option law by giving a friend a drink of whisky while in prison.

The circuit court reported Wednesday evening at 7:30.

AN AGED WOMAN PASSES TO ETERNITY

Elizabeth Hill-Decker Dies at Home in Columbus.

Elizabeth Hill-Decker, a former resident of Martel and well and favorably known in that community, died at the home of her son, George Decker, in Columbus, September 13, aged nearly eighty-two years, from infirmities resulting from old age. Wednesday morning, the remains were taken to St. James and then to the Iberia cemetery, where funeral services were held and interment followed.

Mrs. Decker was born in Guernsey county, October 31, 1827. When three years old, with her parents, she moved to near Iberia, Morrow county, where she resided up to the time of her marriage to Hiram Decker, January 1, 1865, and then moved to Three Locust, now known as Martel. To this union were born two children, George and a girl that died in infancy. She was left a widow, August 30, 1877, but continued to reside in Martel up to the year 1904, when she went to Columbus, to live with her son. The son and four grandchildren are left to mourn her demise.

A. KLERX RETURNS FROM TRIP ABROAD

Says Germans Are Wrought Up Over New Tariffs.

A. Klerx, superintendent of the Silk mills, has returned from a two months' trip to Europe, where he largely spent his time in Germany. Mr. Klerx says the German manufacturers were as interested in the recent tariff legislation as Americans themselves, and many of the great exporting houses are very bitter in denunciation of the new tariff bill. This seems to contradict the impression that the consumer bears the burden. Mr. Klerx was in the heart of the cutlery section, and he says numerous German cutlery factories have already reduced to half or one-third time, and several of them are contemplating shutting down entirely and opening factories in America.

MRS. F. B. SAWYER DIES LAST SATURDAY

Death Comes After a Very Long Illness.

SHE IS SURVIVED BY HUSBAND AND MOTHER

Mrs. Sawyer Is a Member of Presbyterian Church — Remains Were Taken to Mt. Gilead, Monday, Where Funeral Services Were Held at Last Resting Place.

Jennie Patterson Sawyer, aged forty-three years, ten months and sixteen days, wife of Dr. F. B. Sawyer, died of intestinal obstruction at her home, No. 551½ west Center street, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Sawyer had been in poor health several years.

The deceased was born at Lexington and had lived in Marion about fifteen years. She was married to Dr. Sawyer at Mt. Gilead fourteen years ago. She was a member of the Presbyterian church at Cardington. She is survived by her husband and her mother, Mrs. Thomas Patterson, who was with her when death came.

The remains were taken to Mt. Gilead, Monday morning. Short funeral services were held at the grave, Rev. Mr. Houston, of Mt. Gilead, officiating.

MISTAKEN ENTRY MADE BY JUDGE

Message Received from Judge Silas E. Hurin.

County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter received a telephone message from Circuit Judge Silas E. Hurin at Upper Sandusky, Friday afternoon, saying he had made the wrong entry in the case of the Marion Malleable company, plaintiff-in-error, against John Weston, defendant-in-error. He said that instead of affirming the lower court, as the docket entry showed, he had reversed the court below and remanded the case for retrial.

Judge Hurin passed through Marion last Tuesday, when the docket was taken to him at the union station for correction at his request.

Weston, the defendant-in-error, in the common pleas court, had obtained judgment against the company amounting to $2,900. When Judge Hurin reversed the lower court in his oral decision, Thursday night, much surprise was expressed when it was discovered, Friday morning, that, according to the court docket, he had affirmed it.

Attorney John D. DeGolley, representing Weston, was much elated to find that the docket entry was in affirmation of his client's case. He had heard the court's oral decision and thought that the case was reversed. "The Almighty guided Judge Hurin's hand when he wrote that," commented the attorney when he took a copy of the entry, Friday.

BYRON ANDREWS DIES AT HOME OF BROTHER

Comes to Marion for a Visit and Becomes Ill.

STROKE OF PARALYSIS THE CAUSE OF DEATH

Mr. Andrews Is Preceded in Death by His Wife and Two Children—Is a Member of Masonic Order at Curtis—The Remains Were Taken to Raymond for Burial.

Byron Andrews, of Curtis, Nebraska, but who has made his home with his brother, M. F. Andrews, for the past two years, died at the Andrews home, No. 154 west Center street, Monday evening at 8:17 o'clock. Mr. Andrews had been ill for the past four years, but had been bedfast only since last April. Monday morning, he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never rallied. Two brothers, Clayton and M. F. Andrews, and the family of the latter were at his bedside when he passed away.

The deceased was a widower, his wife having died eighteen years ago. He was also preceded in death by two children, a son and daughter. He was born in Franklin county sixty-five years ago and moved to Curtis, twenty-three years ago, where he resided until he came to this city on a visit. His condition was such that he decided to remain here, expecting ultimately to recover his health and return home.

Mr. Andrews was a veteran of the civil war and a man of fearless and noble character. He was affiliated with the Masonic order at Curtis.

The following brothers survive, Henry, of Plain City; Clayton, of Hartford, Indiana; Clifton, of Raymond, and M. F. of this city.

The remains were taken to Raymond over the Erie, leaving here at 10:27 Wednesday morning. The funeral was held at the Baptist church at that place, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. W. F. JOHNSON DIES TUESDAY MORNING

Death Comes at Home of Mother, Mrs. C. R. Clark.

Mrs. Adelia Belle Johnson, aged twenty-five years and seven months, wife of William F. Johnson, former clerk of the courts, died of tuberculosis at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles R. Clark, No. 426 east Center street Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson arrived here two weeks ago Tuesday from Muskogee, Oklahoma, where her husband is in the real estate business. She was so weak at that time that her death was said to be only a question of a few days.

The deceased is survived by her husband and her mother, a sister, Mrs. L. G. Jones, and a brother, Wallace Clark.

Private funeral services were held at the Clark residence, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in the Marion cemetery.

A SMALL COMPANY WITNESSES CEREMONY

LA RUE YOUNG PEOPLE ELOPE TO KENTUCKY

Miss Maud Adams and Mr. Bert Deyson.

HAVE TROUBLE IN SECURING A LICENSE

Bride Lacks One Year of the Proper Age—She Gives the License Clerk Correct Age and Is Refused—The Couple Finally Gets a License at Newport and Marry.

Miss Maud Adams, twenty years old, daughter of Mrs. B. C. Williams, of LaRue, and Bert Deyson, twenty-nine years old, son of Jerome Deyson, a well known Montgomery township farmer, who eloped to Kentucky and were married, were expected to arrive home, last Saturday evening.

"No, there was no objection to the marriage," said Mrs. Williams over the telephone, Saturday. "They just wanted to act smart like some of the other LaRue young people who have run away and got married in Kentucky. Mr. Deyson is a mighty nice young man."

The bride left home early last week, saying she was coming on a visit to this city. Instead she met her lover and went to Covington.

Believing that she had to be only eighteen years old to be of legal age, Miss Adams made trouble for herself and sweetheart by saying she was twenty instead of twenty-one. Still the groom was to blame, too. When the marriage license clerk ask him his name he gave his correct age of twenty-nine. Miss Adams, unlike most runaway girls, spoke the truth as to her age. The clerk said she could not get the license because she had to be twenty-one. The groom was greatly embarrassed. He insisted that she tell her "right age." It was too late, however, to correct her statement, the clerk closing the book with a thud. But Cupid was not to be outwitted so easily. The young people proceeded to Newport, where the bride gave her age as twenty-three. A license was secured and speedily thereafter a minister tied the knot. The marriage took place last Wednesday evening.

The Misses Harriman spent several weeks at Santa Monica and at resorts on Mount Wilson during the summer.

FRANKLIN STRAWSER DIES MONDAY MORNING

Death Comes After a Long Illness of Dropsy

Franklin Strawser died at his home No. 7 Lee street Monday at 8 o'clock. His death was caused by dropsy of which he had been suffering for the past several months. His condition had been critical only the past three weeks.

Mr. Strawser was born in Montgomery township this county Oct. 10 1847 being fifty-nine years, eleven months and fifteen days of age at the time of his death. He had resided in the house on Lee street in which he died for many years.

He is survived by one son William who lives with his father. Mrs. Strawser died five years ago.

The funeral was held from the Lee Street Presbyterian church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock Rev. S. C. Bell officiating. Interment was made in the Marion cemetery.

Lenhart's Winner

Herman Lenhart was in Galion Monday attending a prize shoot conducted by the Galion Gun club. A number of crack shots from various surrounding towns were in attendance. The local representative carried off a good share of the prizes.

ANSWERS CALL OF MESSENGER

ernor life.

The operation which ended Governor Johnson's death was the fourth which he had undergone in search of relief from intestinal trouble which he given him excruciating pain for years.

The Doctors Mayo famous surgeons first operated upon Governor Johnson in 1897 for appendicitis. Only an abscess was found and the appendix was not removed until a second operation in 1901. In 1904 a third operation was necessary and last week the governor underwent the fourth intestinal complication having kept him in constant agony for months.

The sick man's illness just set quite favorably for two days when peritonitis set in.

Surgeons Alarmed

This alarmed the surgeons as much as the governor weakened condition made it difficult to break up the complication without another operation. The treatment to which he was objected was heroic and necessarily a heavy strain on his heart. When the peritonitis complication was finally conquered the governor's heart was found to be fluttering and finally really today ceased beating altogether.

The governor's gameness in the face of death was strikingly shown during the visit of President Taft in Minneapolis and St. Paul last week when Governor Johnson from his bed of pain cut to the president a cheerful telegram warmly welcoming him to the state and regretting his own inability to welcome the chief executive personally. President Taft was deeply affected by the governor's welcome.

The death of Governor John on gave the Republican control of the executive offices for the first time in five years. Lieutenant Governor A. O. Eberhart a Republican now becoming governor.

Self Made Man

John A. Johnson was in every respect a self made man. Born in the town of St. Peter Minnesota July 28 1861 of humble parentage the boy managed to get to the public school of St. Peter until he was twelve years of age when his father died and the care of his mother and younger brothers fell on his young shoulders.

The boy began work as an errand boy in the drug store at St. Peter and saving every penny he could until seven years later found an interest in the St. Peter Herald becoming its editor.

Like the majority of the Swedish Americans who have settled in Minnesota young John on took an interest in politics soon becoming recognized as one of the leaders of the Democratic parties in St. Peter. His editorial dealing with matters of party policy were widely quoted not only in his native but out all through the country.

Joins National Guard

Joining the local company of the Minnesota National guard Johnson was rapidly advanced until he was commissioned captain command which he held for seven years. He secured the nomination to the state senate and was elected by an overwhelming majority which attracted the attention of party leaders throughout the state.

When the time came to nominate a Democratic candidate for governor in 1904 the rank and file of the party was discouraged. The state was mingly overwhelmingly Republican and the democratic vote was cast for Republican presidential candidate with the zenith of his popularity in Minnesota. The name of Johnson was suggested Editor Democratic convention as a good candidate for governor and the young editor was named to head the forlorn hope.

So well did he lead that although the Republican national ticket swept the state John A. Johnson was elected governor by a substantial plurality. His administration also was record breaking and he was re-elected in 1906 and again in 1908.

Johnson's claims for the Democratic presidential nomination were advanced by Henry Watterson two years ago but the time seemed hardly ripe and the leaders of the party failed to respond as the south in addressed. In fact there was little doubt now that had the Watterson boom been forwarded by the endorsement of the northwestern Democrats a hopeful William J. Bryan would have had the nomination at two thirds convention at Denver in July 1908. But the Johnson movement was allowed to die with the result that it had but few delegates when the convention nominated.

Two years in the University of Pennsylvania conferred the degree of doctor of laws on Governor Johnson.

The governor was married on June 1 1891 to Elmer Preston in St. Peter.

Johnson's Career

Some persons say that opportunity for the American boy has passed. But the career of the late John A. Johnson governor of Minnesota does not prove it. When Johnson was nominated for governor in 1904 to lead a forlorn hope everybody supposed his political opponents published broadcast the statement that his father had died a drunkard in a poorhouse and that his mother had taken in washing. The report was investigated and proved true but it did not have the effect that its circulators had hoped. The American manhood of Minnesota the same kind of American manhood that had elected the rail splitter Lincoln president re-elected Johnson. He was elected although the remainder of his ticket was snowed under by nearly 100 000 majority. Not only so but he has been elected twice since the only Democrat chosen in his strongly Republican state. In 1900 Johnson was the first preferential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination second to Bryan.

Governor Johnson died as the result of the fourth operation for appendicitis more correctly the adhesions resulting from former operations for appendicitis the first of which occurred fifteen years ago. He was born in Minnesota in 1861 the son of poor Swedish immigrants.

The last notable utterance of Governor Johnson was in appeal for the west to stand to other and look out for its own interests which President Taft regarded a sufficient importance to refer to in his Boston address made at the very time that Johnson was preparing for undergoing the operation which resulted in his death.

Nominated For Governor

In 1904 the Democrats of Minnesota nominated for governor a country editor the St. Peter Herald man John Johnson as a pretty good country editor. There were some 400 other in Minnesota. St. Peter is a small town and the Herald is a small paper but it is not necessarily true that a small paper in a small town had a small man at the head of it. Many instances to the contrary might be cited but Johnson is enough. For fifteen years Editor Johnson had run the editorial end of the Herald while his partner Henry Lesser had run the mechanical end. Both took a hand at the business end. Johnson became secretary and then president of the state editorial association. So the then editors knew him and then liked him.

Johnson had served one term as a state senator and some of the politicians knew him and liked him too. But he was defeated for re-election being a Democrat in a Republican district and when his party placed him at the head of the state ticket he was plain John Johnson country editor.

Minnesota's normal Republican majority is between 60 000 and 70 000. The Democrats had little or no expectation of electing Johnson. One reason they picked him for the candidacy was that he was a Swede and would get the Scandinavian vote which in Minnesota is a considerable factor. The hoped he at any rate would make a decent showing and most of them would have been satisfied with that. But Johnson having accepted the nomination made a systematic campaign. His opponent State Auditor Dunn was not altogether popular in his own party. Dunn's unpopularity helped Johnson against whose record nobody had anything to say. Johnson's popularity increased as Dunn's decreased. Something had to be done for Dunn.

Ten days before election some boomerang thrower in Minnesota printed and distributed a circular setting forth that candidate Johnson's father had been a drunkard and had died in the poorhouse and that his mother had taken in washing. You cannot find in Minnesota today the thrower of this political boomerang. Most likely he is and was then an inmate of the asylum for the insane.

Some supporters of Johnson too much excited to know a golden opportunity when they met it face to face were disturbed by this circular and urged the candidate to make a strong denial of the statements.

Exactly what was Johnson's quiet reply.

Story Quickly Went the Rounds

The point he couldn't dispute was that what the circular said about his parents was true. A St. Paul newspaper which supported him sent a staff correspondent post haste to the little town of St. Peter. The staff man investigated the damned unintended of John Johnson. The reportorial assignment would have delighted any good newspaper man. It is not often that a reporter strikes such human interest color. The story of John Johnson of St. Peter as published in the St. Paul paper quickly went the rounds of the Minnesota press also it went the rounds of the country hotel offices where governors are made and presidents are prepared from the raw material.

The St. Paul reporter discovered that Gustaf Johnson a blacksmith had emigrated from Sweden about fifty years ago settling in St. Peter. He had been a heavy drinker in his native land and came to America in the hope that he might reform. He did reform for a few years. He married Caroline Hiden a Swedish girl also an immigrant. She was utterly alone in America. The blacksmith installed her in a two room house in St. Peter. For a few years the brawny arms of Gustaf Johnson earned a living for the wife and the little ones who came. John being the first baby born in 1861. Then returned in with all of the old malady the old disease which in the system of the village blacksmith demanded alcohol. The blacksmith became a drunkard. Like many others of his unfortunate class he went from bad to worse. Finally the local authorities placed him in the poorhouse where after some years he died.

Mrs. Johnson was left with six children to support. John was only twelve years old but he arose to the occasion. He insisted upon quitting school so that he might help. He got a job in a grocery store. A grocer's boy has no snap as a job but some of them have snap as individuals. John Johnson—they probably called him Johnny then—got $10 a month which he turned over to his mother. He found time to deliver laundry washed and ironed by his mother his splendid heroic mother and also to deliver papers on the carriers route—the town paper. After two years of this grocer's boy life he got a job in the drug store at a slightly higher rate of pay. From this time on his mother quit taking in washing. John supported the family. In the years following three of the little sisters died and John Johnson was in debt to the undertaker. The boy studied hard while working in the drug store. The little public library was in the same block. He read many books from the library being chiefly interested in history. Meanwhile he studied pharmacy too and eventually he became a registered pharmacist.

Real Journalist With a Real Job

After nine years in the drug store John Johnson became a journalist. In the cities a journalist is sometimes described as a newspaper man out of a job. In St. Peter John Johnson was a real journalist with a real job paying for a half interest in the Herald for which friends who believed in him had put up the money. Johnson had paid off the undertaker. He had bought in the two room family homestead which was about to be sold for taxes and he had added other rooms and improvements.

So this was the story discovered by the St. Paul reporter. It was so magnificently true that American Minnesota arose gloriously to the occasion. President Roosevelt carried the always Republican state of Minnesota by a majority of 161 402—a hundred thousand above the normal majority. But bold John Albert Johnson Democrat was elected governor by a majority of 7 800. Not a very huge majority that and yet he turned 81 400 votes to get it.

The country editor closed down his desk at St. Peter probably saying to Henry Lesser: I'll be back in two years. Try to keep the subscribers in line and don't let the ads get away from you. Keep the jobwork going.

Then he went to work at his new job in St. Paul his office being in Minnesota's fine new state capitol building. Did Johnson as governor of a great state pose as a sickly sentimental friend of the common people? Not a bit of it—not he. Johnson made no pretense of being ultra democratic. He wore good clothes the prevailing style and cut just as dignified a figure at a gubernatorial reception as he had cut in the editorial sanctum at St. Peter. He had sense enough to adapt himself to his environment.

He Made Good

Johnson also had the moral and mental backbone to make him johnny on the spot with his new job. He had had no experience as an editor when he took hold of the St. Peter Herald. But he made good. He made good also as governor of Minnesota. Do you want proof? Then read the election returns of 1906. Normally the Republican candidate should have won by about 70 000 majority. As a matter of fact Johnson won by 72 000 majority. Somebody asked how he did it.

I only tried to make good replied Johnson.

No boomerang was thrown in the second campaign. If Johnson had not made good in his two years term as governor he would have been sent back to the St. Peter Herald office. The washerwoman circular promulgated by the unidentified asylum inmate made him governor but as governor he made good himself. Those years of struggle of self effacement of mother love and brotherly devotion in St. Peter gave him the stamina to make good. When some one asked him what he considered the most important result of his administration as governor he replied:

Law enforcement. We have brought about conditions by which the state officers obey the law themselves and enforce it.

Made Tax Dodgers Wince

But Governor Johnson did not stop at enforcement of the laws on the statute books. By his influence he brought about the enactment of new laws to meet conditions. One thing he did was to have the legislature give him a board of tax equalizers. Johnson appointed three of the best men in the state. Under the law the board had only advisory powers. The governor used his discretion. The steel trust has immense mines in northern Minnesota. These mines were taxed on a valuation of $38 000 000 when Johnson took office. Now they are taxed on a valuation of $194 000 000 and the poor taxpayer feels better. The electric railways uniting St. Paul and Minneapolis are paying twice as much taxes as they paid before the advent of Johnson. The tax dodgers began to wince when Johnson became governor.

Some persons take pleasure in comparing John Johnson with Abraham Lincoln. This is due to the fact that both men had immediate ancestors of the land that as a rule do not produce society swells. Johnson seemed to have at all the homely honesty of Lincoln and more dignity than Honest Abe. Whatever he might have turned out to be in the future we must subject to the original thesis and assert that if Johnson had been a candidate for head sheik of Fifth Avenue's Four Hundred that lunatics circular would have defeated him. But he was running merely for the governorship of the plain common sensible intelligent people of an American commonwealth.

WIRELESS EXHIBIT FOR COUNTY FAIR

Directors Hold a Meeting in the City Saturday

Directors of the Marion County Agricultural Society held a meeting in the office of Secretary James A. Knapp Saturday afternoon and discussed the feasibility of having an exhibit of wireless telegraphy at the fifty ninth annual fair which will open a week from Tuesday.

J. W. Bingham of Dorset who claims to be an expert wireless operator is anxious to make an exhibit of a wireless station here. The fair managers are considering the proposition.

Following Saturday's meeting the directors inspected the fair ground. The grounds were never in better shape for the big show than they are today said Secretary Knapp this morning. This week the fair managers visited the fairs at Mansfield and Fremont in the interest of the Marion county fair's speed program and any other feature that will add to the local fair's attraction.

Secretary Knapp declares the mid way this year will eclipse anything ever previously seen on the local fair ground. We have the united side shows he says and they are dandies. We haven't seen a fair anywhere in Ohio this year that will come any where near touching our midway in splendor.

TWO DESERTED WIVES APPEAL TO OFFICER

They Seek Their Husbands, Who Disappear

Mrs. Frank Krutsch and Mrs. Frank D. Valodin Make Complaints to Humane Officer J. W. Lish—Krutsch Disappears on a Former Occasion—Absent Several Months.

Two deserted wives the mothers of small children appealed to Humane Officer J. W. Lish Monday to find their missing husbands.

Mrs. Frank Krutsch says her husband drew $10 pay from the Marion Steam Shovel company a month ago and disappeared. She declared Friday he went away he put on his good clothes and said that after drawing his money he would pay the bills but went away and didn't even pay the rent. I got a postcard from him from Duluth Wisconsin and that is all I know. We have two little children. The oldest is three and the youngest a year and a half.

Mrs. Krutsch says her husband went away once before and was gone several months. She is now living with her father Thomas Russel of Davids street.

The other unhappy wife and mother is Mrs. Frank D. Valodin who says her husband deserted her last Sunday. She has two small children. Her home is at No. 224 Main street.

Valodin was employed at the Erie round house. Before going away he said that he had been transferred to Irwin in Pennsylvania but Mrs. Valodin says the round house foreman informs her that her husband was not sent to another place of work for the company. He is believed to have gone to Portsmouth where his relatives reside.

Mrs. Valodin and her children are in destitute circumstances. Officer Lish reported their condition to the township trustees.

CLIMATE NEAR POLE IS IDEAL

Peary Predicts Greenland Will Be Great Summer Resort.

THE AIR IS GOOD FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Roosevelt's Crew Forbidden To Discuss Controversy.

Boatswain Murphy Tells of His Experience While Guarding Supplies at Etah — Professor McMillan Finds Many Relics from Former Polar Expeditions—Pole May Be Reached Again.

Sydney, C. B., Sept. 20.—Newspaper correspondents returning from Battle Harbor on the steamer Tyrian threw new light on the controversy over the discovery of the north pole. At Battle Harbor they learned from two members of Commander Peary's expedition that Dr. Frederick A. Cook had met them at Etah and had mentioned nothing of the discovery of the pole.

When Harry Whitney, George Norton and Larned went to Etah on the Erik to bring provisions for Commander Peary both Norton and Larned turned back and Whitney obtained permission from Commander Peary to remain at the Etah station. Commander Peary stationed John Murphy, boatswain of the Roosevelt, and William Pritchard, assistant cook, of the Roosevelt, at Etah to guard the stores. Murphy, telling of his experience at Etah, said to the newspaper men:

"Commander Peary told me to go ashore at Etah to guard the stores which I saw taken from the Roosevelt and the Erik. Pritchard was with me. Some time last spring a white man came into camp, and Mr. Whitney told me that it was Dr. Cook. He did not stay long in camp and soon went away. Cook looked tired and worn out and said he was hungry. I had an argument with him, as he claimed that some of the stores that we were guarding belonged to him. He only had two Eskimos with him, and as all his dogs were dead the doctor had to pull his own sledge. Pritchard said these Eskimos told him they had been way, way north."

None of the Peary party at Battle Harbor would discuss what information has been learned from Harry Whitney, as Commander Peary had given orders that the Cook controversy must not be mentioned. It was commonly reported at Battle Harbor, however, that Peary had some difference with Whitney, who decided that instead of returning to Sydney on the Roosevelt he would do some shooting in Greenland.

Cooks Friends Butt In.

Friends of Dr. Cook here pointed out that when Commander Peary, on his return from the pole, sent for Professor McMillan, who had gone to establish a base of supplies at Cape Morris Jesup, he did not mention in his letter to the professor anything of his discovery of the pole. The message, which was made public by Professor McMillan at Battle Harbor, reads:

"S. S. Roosevelt, April 28, 1909.

"My Dear McMillan—Arrived on board yesterday. Northern trip was entirely satisfactory. There is no need of Greenland depot. Captain came on board the twenty-fifth. Concentrate all your energies on tidal observations and line soundings north from Cape Morris Jesup. Use intended supplies for me for this purpose.

"COMMANDER PEARY."

The adherents of Commander Peary assert that the words in the message, "northern trip entirely satisfactory," indicate clearly that the expedition had accomplished its purpose.

Professor McMillan said at Battle Harbor that he had seen Harry Whitney at Etah, and that Whitney did not tell any one of Dr. Cook's reported discovery of the pole.

It was in an old sail and stores loft in Battle Harbor, Labrador, that Commander Peary told the story to a score or more of correspondents of his journey to the pole. He will head no more trips to the Arctic, nor, for that matter, to the Antarctic. His work in the ice fields is finished.

"I have accomplished the ambition of my life," said the commander. "I shall always be interested in Arctic explorations, but it must now be left to younger men."

McMillan Tells of Discoveries.

Commander Peary often broke his narrative to call upon Professor Donald McMillan, naturalist and geologist of the expedition, to relate some incident of the trip. No less interesting than Peary's dash to the pole were the discoveries of Professor McMillan of relics and stores of seven previous Arctic expeditions, those of General Greeley in 1881-84; Commander Hall in 1871; the Amundsen exploration party of 1903; Sir John Lockwood's expedition, the exploration party of Admiral Sir George Nares in 1875-76, and the the expeditions of Commander Peary in 1896 and 1900.

"I shall pay no attention to fake stories or any side issues," said Commander Peary, "that are put out to distract from the main question, 'Has Cook been at the pole?'"

Then he continued: "I do not care to speak of other observations in view of what I claim and I won't say anything more until the statement signed by another is offered, and then I will submit my statement."

"The reaching of the pole," added Peary, "is the proof of man's final conquest of the earth. As it stood with the pole unfound, it was a continual reproach to civilization. The discovery of the south pole may now be looked for as an accepted fact. Work in the Antarctic is quite different from that in the north. An expedition to the north pole must complete its work within the year. No base can be left for another year's operations, while in the Antarctic one can lay a base which will be permanent for the further advance the next year."

That Greenland and the Arctic regions will become a summer resort in time is Commander Peary's confident belief, and Dr. Goodsell, physician of the expedition, asserted that the dry air and constant sunlight of the summer was a fine cure for tuberculosis.

Thus from one subject of Arctic interest to another Commander Peary passed, briefly touching only the material and human interest points which had already gone forward to the world in wireless dispatches.

"Commander Peary, do you believe that the pole can be reached again, and to what do you ascribe your success this time?"

Could Retrace Steps.

"I believe that any member of my party could reach the pole twice out of three times, just the same as Captain Bartlett could take the Roosevelt through the ice floes to Cape Sheridan four out of five times. You get your training as you progress toward the pole. I keep myself sound, clean and straight, and this has been of great help in the trials of a rigorous climate."

The story of Professor McMillan on his finding of the relics and stores of earlier expeditions was fraught with interest. On a trip to the westward from the winter quarters at Cape Sheridan to make observations, Professor McMillan came upon some supplies at Fort Conger, which had been left there by the Greeley expedition in 1881-84.

"There were coffee, tea, canned potatoes and rhubarb, and I tried them all. It seemed strange to think that 17 out of that party of 25 had died of starvation after they had left these provisions behind. They had to go back under orders and failed to find the relief ship at Cape Sabine.

Professor Marvin found a cuff bearing the name of Sir John Lockwood, the only trace of that disastrous expedition encountered. He also found the site of the Polarisis house, made from timbers of the ship, Polaris, which was used by Commander Charles Francis Hall, United States navy, in the expedition of 1870-71, and also came across the headquarters of the expedition of 1875-76, which was led by Admiral Sir George Nares. He also found traces of other expeditions and brought back a number of relics.

"Why was it that you and the others did not go to the pole with Commander Peary instead of Henson?" McMillan was asked.

"Because Henson was better fitted than any one in our party," he replied. "He was stronger and had more experience, was a better sledge driver and repairer and in every way was the man to go."

Roosevelt Leaves Battle Harbor.

Battle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 20.—Followed by the cheers and shouts of half a hundred Labrador fishermen, and given a farewell salute from the historical old cannon which stands near the Marconi station, the Peary Arctic steamer Roosevelt sailed for Sydney and New York, proudly flying the north pole flag. This flag was made at Battle Harbor.

THE BEAUTIFUL STORY A DREAM

No Reconciliation Between Abruzzi and Miss Elkins.

DUKE IS SOON TO SAIL AWAY

On a Cruise Which Will Last Several Months.

Close Friends of the Duke Say That It Is No Longer the Consent of His Relatives Which Causes the Duke Grief, but That Miss Elkins Has Tired of Being Discussed and Irrevocably Renounced the Duke.

Rome, Sept. 20.—All the beautiful stories of the last few days regarding a reconciliation between the Duke of Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins, his former fiancee, were upset today by the announcement that the duke, who is soon to be made a rear admiral, will sail in December on a cruise that will last for several months.

It is understood the duke himself solicited the commission, and his action is taken to mean that his efforts to re-win the favor of Miss Elkins have failed.

That members of the Italian royal household, including the dowager Queen Margherita and the Duchess of Aosta, are still opposed to Miss Elkins, is vouched for by one of the duke's closest friends. Had the duke been able, however, to have won the approval of every member of his family, he could not have become reengaged to Miss Elkins, according to the knowing ones of the court. They say that Miss Elkins has grown tired of being "discussed" by the Italian nobility, and that she settled the question herself by positively and irrevocably renouncing the duke.

COOK WELCOMED BY COUNTRYMEN

day is all the more welcome to me because it shows, in spite of all the controversy, you believe me.

"I would have preferred to have returned first to America, but that was impossible, and I had to go to Denmark. I was a stranger in a strange land. Yet they rose as one man, and they have guaranteed to the other nations of the world our conquest of the pole."

Dr. Cook and his wife and children and the immediate members of his family were then escorted to a private cabin, in which they remained in seclusion for the remainder of the trip.

Instead of going direct to Brooklyn, the Grand Republic proceeded up the North river to 130th street.

As the Grand Republic passed the three French battleships anchored in the river, the French sailors manned the rails and gave three lusty cheers for the explorer. The tri-color was dipped in salute.

The Grand Republic finally landed its party in Brooklyn, where an enormous crowd was in waiting and loudly cheered the explorer as he was escorted to waiting automobiles. Although he asked to be permitted to go quietly home he soon found that he was in the "hands of his friends," and a procession was quickly formed which after traversing the principal streets, proceeded to the Bushwick club, where an informal reception was held.

The streets all along the route were crowded with people who gave the returned Brooklynite who has done more to bring the city before the world than any man since the time of Henry Ward Beecher, a warm welcome home.

Triumphal Procession.

The explorer's trip through Brooklyn's streets was a triumphal progress. He was bundled into an automobile at the dock, and the machine, followed by 300 others, started for the Bushwick club. Three thousand persons on foot fell in behind the automobiles and shouted and cheered. Along the line of march crowds five deep lined the sidewalks and cheered the explorer as he bowed from the tonneau of the car. Several times, the procession was interrupted while some enthusiastic presented a huge bunch of flowers to Dr. Cook. When the automobiles reached the Bushwick club, it was piled high with flowers.

Upon arriving at the club, Dr. Cook greeted the officers and reception committee with a cordial handshake. He was almost exhausted and asked that he be allowed to rest. He was taken to a private room and given a half hour's respite.

Meanwhile, the 3,000 enthusiasts who had followed him to the club had been augmented to nearly 5,000.

There demands became so insistent that at 2:30 Dr. Cook came down stairs and took his place in the reception hall, wher che shook hands with excited admirers at the rate of thirty a minute.

This reception will be continued until 6:30 o'clock, where the explorer will sit down to a banquet tendered him by the club. This will occupy him until 8:30, when he will be serenaded for two hours by the United German Singing societies, 400 strong. He will later receive the singers and the guests at the banquet, shaking hands with all. At the conclusion of this reception, he will be taken with his wife and children by automobile to the Waldorf hotel, where a suite has been reserved for them.

FIRE THREATENS PRESIDENT TAFT

His Private Car, Mayflower, Afire During Night.

Blaze Is Discovered by Servants Aboard the Car and President Does Not Learn of His Danger Till He Awakens This Morning.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 20.—President Taft was in danger of fire last night. At 1:30 a. m. his private car, the Mayflower, caught fire, and but for the prompt work of the crew would have been consumed. Just how the fire started none seemed to know.

Will Anderson, the porter, and Peter Anderson, the white cook, loaned to the president by John Hays Hammond, were awakened by the smell of smoke.

They found the floor of the Mayflower's kitchen ablaze. Seizing a few buckets of water, a few bags of flour and an ice-cream can half full of brine, they fought the flames, but it was several minutes before they could extinguish the fire.

Neither the president nor any member of his party knew the danger they were in until this morning, when the blackened hole burned in the floor called for explanations.

APPLICATION OF THAW IS DENIED

Will Not Have Insanity Hearing in Pennsylvania.

The Court of Appeals at Pittsburg So Decides Today in Deciding the Application for Commission—Entire Court Concurs.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—With the entire court conferring, the court of appeals today denied the application of Attorney F. B. Kahle for a commission to examine Harry K. Thaw as to his sanity. The application has been made in the interest of J. H. Graham, of New York, who alleged that Thaw owed him $2,951.77.

DELAWARE PEOPLE AND MARION CAR

A Remodeled Car Is Subject of a Protest.

Delaware people are up in arms over the remodeled car taken from the local lines and sent to their classical city for service Monday, the residents of north Sandusky street filed a petition with Mayor Haas, asking that the car be removed from the line because of the noise of its mechanism being "annoying and excruciating."

Mayor Haas immediately ordered the car removed and it was placed on the lines running to the Big Four and Hocking Valley stations. "The question now is," says the Delaware Herald, "will the residents of Winter, Williams and Lake streets silently undergo their annoyance?"

JOHN TRIMBLE ROBBED BY UNKNOWN MAN

Fellow Grabs Wallet and Makes Escape.

TEMPLE REPORTS THE ROBBERY TO POLICE

He Is Unable To Give Description of Man Who Gets His Money—Stops To Take a Drink with Strangers and Is Robbed—Some Local Police Court Items.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Friday evening, John Trimble reported to the police that he had been robbed of his wallet containing $67. Trimble worked in this city about four months ago, being a carriage trimmer. He went to Detroit and enroute to his home in Hamilton he stopped here to call on some friends.

In the evening he was playing pool at the Colonial billiard parlor, on north Main street. On leaving the billiard parlor, he was followed down Court street by two fellows. He was asked to have a drink, and while standing with the fellows, he alleges that one of the men jerked open his vest and the other grabbed his wallet from an inside vest pocket and ran. Trimble had the fellow who remained with him arrested as an accomplice.

Officer Babcock arrested the man who gave his name as Nelson McClelland, and said that he formerly lived at LaRue, but had been in Texas. Trimble was also arrested and a charge of drunkenness was slated against both of them. Joseph Martin was later picked up by the officer on suspicion of being implicated in the hold-up, but as it developed he had nothing to do with the theft of the money and he was turned out.

Saturday, Trimble filed an affidavit against McClelland charging him with assault and robbery. McClelland pleaded not guilty to the charge, and was held pending a further investigation of the case. McClelland pleaded guilty to the intoxication charge, and was fined five dollars and sentenced to stand committed until the amount is paid.

The man who is alleged to have taken the money and made his escape is unknown to the police. None of the parties to the affair knew him and could give no description that would assist the officers in his arrest.

Nelson McClelland, charged with making an assault on and robbing John Trimble, Friday evening, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before the mayor, Saturday, and his hearing was held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Meanwhile the officers made a thorough investigation of the case and as sufficient evidence could not be secured to sustain Trimble's charges, the case was dismissed.

Alta Green was the only drunk that occupied a cell in the city prison, Sunday night. Green greeted the mayor, Monday, in his pleasant way, but was very nervous. He was arrested on north Main street, Sunday morning, by Officer Thompson and when searched an old razor was taken from one of his pockets. Monday, Green pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and also to an affidavit filed against him by Chief Cornwell, charging him with carrying concealed weapons. He also pleaded guilty to this charge. As the mayor has been given considerable trouble by Green and the latter has been causing some trouble at his home, he was fined $50 and the costs in the case and sentenced to serve three months in the Columbus workhouse.

Mary Putman, residing on east George street, filed an affidavit in the mayor's court Monday morning charging William Kehrwiecker with making an assault on her six-year-old son Kehrwecker has been riding his bicycle on the sidewalk, and a few days ago had one of his tires punctured by running over some broken glass. He was of the opinion that the glass was thrown there by the Putman lad and when he passed the boy and his mother, he hit the lad while on his wheel. He was arrested by Officer Wilhelm and taken before the mayor. Kehrwecker pleaded guilty to the charge, but as he is not quite sixteen years of age, the mayor let him go after giving him a severe lecture and receiving his promise to be good in the future.

Burglars made a wholesale raid on the general store of B. F. Conklin, at Edison, Monday night. The thieves were not of the modest kind. They even carried away the cash register. In addition to the register, they secured one and one-half dozen pairs of trousers, a dozen pairs of overalls, a dozen dress shirts, about fifty rings, some razors, several cans of salmon and sardines and other articles.

The cash register taken is of the Hallwood make and contained a small amount of money. The robbery was reported to the local police this morning. It is the opinion of the police that the theft was committed by amateurs who were unable to open the register in the store and carried it away in the belief that it contained a large sum of money. The thieves undoubtedly had a rig in which to carry away their plunder. The loss is estimated at several hundred dollars.

The mayor's court was crowded, Monday evening, when DeWitt Vestal was given a trial on a charge of making an assault on the six-year-old son of Sarah E. Bender. The Bender woman filed an affidavit against Vestal, Monday, and he pleaded not guilty to the charge against him.

Vestal was represented by Attorney H. E. Hill, while the prosecution was represented by Attorney L. E. Meyers. The trial lasted about two hours and was heard by nearly all the neighbors of the parties interested. According to the evidence brought out, Vestal did whip the Bender youth, but it was shown that he also whipped his own child at the same time for the purpose of breaking them of the habit of jumping on heavily-loaded wagons. As there was no malice shown in Vestal whipping the child, the case was dismissed.

Morton Gillette was arrested, Tuesday, by Officer Cusic on information received from Kenton that he was wanted at that place to answer to a charge of destruction of property. Gillette was in Kenton about a month ago and hired a livery rig Gillette states that he had a collision and broke the top of the vehicle, but promised to make a settlement for the damage. He neglected to comply with his promise and as a result it led to his arrest. Gillette has been working at the Marion Steam Shovel shops

William P. Rathel filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Tuesday, charging William Klehm with selling intoxicating liquors in violation of the local-option law. August 30. Klehm is employed by Herman Kalkbrenner at the Hotel Nordica on west Center street. In the affidavit Rathel alleges that on or about the date mentioned Klehm sold whisky to his son, James H. Rathel, which led to the latter's arrest on a drunkenness charge. When arraigned before the mayor Klehm pleaded not guilty to the charge against him. He was released on his own recognizance to appear for preliminary hearing Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Alta Green was taken to Columbus, Monday afternoon, to start his time of serving three months and working out $50 and costs for carrying concealed weapons. Unlike most prisoners, Green seemed perfectly satisfied with his punishment and requested the mayor to recommend him for the Keeley cure. The sentence with the fine and costs will keep Green confined in the workhouse over five months.

A Nice Affair.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hinamon, of Bain avenue, entertained at a dinner Monday for the Hinamon family. The table was beautiful in fern leaves and pink astors

Those around the festal board were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinamon and children, Miss Rebecca Hinamon and Mr. Lowell Lindsey from north of the city, Mr. and Mrs Samuel Hinamon and Mrs. J. Yokum, of this city.

UNITED BRETHREN CONFERENCE ENDED

Eight New Ministers Are Admitted to Conference.

REV. J. W. MILES IS RETURNED TO MARION

Resolutions Are Adopted as to Temperance Legislation—Salary Limit of $500 and Free Parsonages Is Adopted—The Conference Is One of Most Interesting in History.

The Sandusky conference of the United Brethren church closed its session in Columbus Grove, Sunday. Eight new ministers were admitted to the conference, Rev. J. W. Miles, pastor of the local United Brethren church, being one of this number.

The conference took a strong stand on temperance, and, in the resolutions adopted, the legislature was urged to stand for all that is good in this connection. The Ditmar bill, one of the new measures to come up in the legislature this winter, was indorsed. It provides against the manufacture, selling or giving away of cigarets. The conference adopted a salary limit of $500 and free use of parsonages. A. C. Siddall, of Findlay, was re-elected conference superintendent. A memorial was read on the life of Bishop Mills, who died at his home in Annville, Pennsylvania.

The assignment of pastors was given out, Sunday morning, Rev. J. W. Miles being returned to Marion as pastor of the local church for another year. Rev. Mr. Miles succeeded Rev. L. C. Reed as the local pastor, a little less than ten months ago, and since that time he has made many friends outside the membership of his church. Since he has been pastor the church has made nice progress and the Sunday-school has shown a good increase. It was the wish of the members of the church that he be returned to the local charge and some of the leading members and the church board recommended to conference that he be returned, with the result that their wish was complied with. Rev. A Snider, a former pastor of the local congregation who has been pastor of the church at Galion for the past three years, has been returned to that place.

The conference was declared to be the most interesting held by the Sandusky branch in several years It was decided to hold the next conference at the Memorial U. B. church in Toledo.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMISSIONERS

Henry Seiter Is Elected President by Board.

ANDREW H. TROUT BEGINS HIS DUTIES

Several Contracts Are Let by the Old Board of Commissioners at Its Last Meeting, Saturday Afternoon—Those Who Get Contracts and the Prices Allowed.

The new board of county commissioners held a meeting, Monday, and organized by electing Henry Seiter, Democrat, president. The other new member is Andrew H. Trout, Democrat. William H. Holverstott, Republican, was reelected last fall. He was president of the old board.

Immediately after organizing the commissioners adjourned to view the Likens ditch in Marion township.

The old board, composed of Joseph Gillespie, Daniel Seiter and Mr. Holverstott, held its final meeting, Saturday afternoon, and awarded the following contracts for resurfacing pikes:

Richland pike, A. J. Brady, $1,050; La Rue and Marseilles pike in Montgomery township, R. R. Sturgis, $1,567.80; Radnor pike, Brady & O'Connell, $1,497.50.

The Richland pike is to be graveled from a point beginning at the Oborn scales, thence east to the end of the road, a distance of 2.08 miles. The only other bidder for the work was D. G. Almendinger, whose bid was $1,138.80. The estimate of County Surveyor Edward S. Ault was $1,204.50.

Fred Turner's bid, which was $1,423, was the lowest, on the La Rue and Marseilles pike, but was declared irregular and thrown out. Brady & O'Connell bid $1,587.60 on this job. The surveyor's estimate was $1,609 50. The successful bidder, R. R. Sturgis, is to use crushed stone in the resurfacing and the Continental Bitumen company, of Toledo, is to cover it with the same tar preparation used on the piece of pike constructed at the east end of Center street along the Garfield park. The Toledo firm will receive $1,431 for its work. The improvement will be made from the La Rue cemetery corner or cross-roads and run to the south line of the east-and-west road at the intersection of High street in the village of La Rue, a distance of 6,110 feet.

The resurfacing of the Radnor pike was provided for. It contains 5,260 feet and will be improved with crushed stone. Other bidders on this improvement were Hofstetter & Dawson, $1,656.90; Fred Turner, $1,715; J. N. Hamilton, $1,629; Cornelius Dwyer, $1,777. A. J. Brady bid on 1,198 yards at $1.55 and J. W. Scott put in a bid by the yard at $1.39.

CHARLES S. NORRIS IS A CANDIDATE

Announces Candidacy for Mayor of Richwood.

Editor Star:—I wish to announce through your columns, which I know deal fairly with all public matters and do no practice the art—excuse the word—of brutal suppression of facts for possible personal advantage, that I am an independent candidate for mayor of Richwood before the regular election in November, and will to stand unequivocally throughout the campaign, all rumors or vagaries put forward by my opponents to the contrary. While I hesitated for a time to take this step, after being a Republican candidate before the primary, the result of which was so close and open to criticism as to methods in various ways, I now feel justified in it.

I could not do otherwise as a man who consented when asked to run for a second term at the hands of the dominant party of Richwood, and was so unfairly beaten out of a renomination, which shows conclusively that I was the real choice of that party.

While I fully appreciate the course of my friends of all parties who immediately circulated a petition and urged me to accept a place on the November ballot as an independent candidate, I want it distinctly understood that this solicitation and movement has not influenced me in my decision as much as a sense of duty and fidelity to my friends, who are standing by me for the welfare of Richwood as their opinion of the case dictates to them. Under all the circumstances I am an independent candidate and will so stand until the eve of the November election and take this manner of announcing the fact to the public.

Yours respectfully,
Charles S. Norris.

BUGPROOF POTATO FOUND BY PREACHER

Bay State Minister Banishes the Pest.

The Rev. Amos N. Somers, a Unitarian minister at Montague, Mass., recently stated that he has succeeded in growing a "bugproof" potato. He said: "The vines of my potatoes have a peculiar odor which is offensive to the potato bug, for it never goes near them. I have taken bugs from plants of the usual type in the next row in my potato patch and put them in my new vines, and in half an hour I can't find one."

Fast Train Located

Memphis Tenn Sept 23—Illinois Central passenger train No 2, a fast limited train running north from New Orleans was found today south of Manchac, Louisiana by a force of repair men, sent out to reopen communication with the South Train No 2 has been missing since Monday night, when it started north in the tropical storm which burst over the gulf of Mexico and swept inland

Officials of the road say the train was stalled by a washout and that a washout behind it prevented it from going back to some station Train and passengers are reported safe Provisions were furnished from farm houses nearby and the passengers it is declared did not suffer

A large force of repair men started south today from Jackson, Mississippi, and have the tracks opened as far south as Manchac and are pushing their way south as fast as possible The tracks further south run through marshes and swamps and the work is very slow Seven miles of tracks were found washed out at one place

Nine dead bodies were found at one station

Railroad officials expect to have trains running, between Jackson and New Orleans tonight

200 Craft Lost.

Mobile Ala, Sept 23—The latest reports received from the storm swept gulf coast towns are that the inhabitants are doing their best to repair the wrecked piers houses etc and restore communication More than 200 fishing craft were lost in the vicinity of Gulfport Biloxi and other fishing centers

Five hundred people are homeless at Bayou Maunare near the mouth of the Mississippi every house in the village being a complete wreck Five hundred feet of the steel bridge of the Louisville & Nashville railroad was swept away by the storm the damage from this source alone aggregating $100 000

Scouting parties are searching the inlets for craft that may have been dismasted and driven into them Wrecked boats are reported to be scattered all the way from Scranton to New Orleans while nearly all of the towns along the coast are still without wire communication with the cities The Louisville & Nashville is opening its trains into New Orleans by way of Meridian and Gulfport thence to Hattiesburg

SEEKING THE CONTROL OF HOCKING VALLEY

Rumors of a Deal Through Morgan & Company.

GREAT SECRECY AS TO THE TRANSACTION

The Kanawha & Michigan Also Involved in the Deal—R. M Baldwin, of the Erie, Will Receive a Promotion in a Short Time—Some Local Railroad Items.

Reports on what were considered good authority gained circulation in Columbus yesterday that a deal had been completed whereby Edwin Hawley, who owns a controlling interest in the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, had completed a deal through J Pierpont Morgan & Company of New York to secure control of the Hocking Valley railroad The deal also it was stated would involve the Kanawha & Michigan railway as the latter is dominated by the Hocking Valley, which owns two-thirds of its stock

The purpose of the C & O in getting the Hocking Valley and the K & M would be to secure an outlet to the lakes Both the C & O and the K & M touch Charleston West Virginia The advantage of the arrangement frequently has been pointed out in the past

The Hocking Valley has two large stock issues, $15 000,000 preferred and $11,000 000 common stock Of the latter $7 000 000 is owned or has been by five railway systems the Pennsylvania, the Erie the Baltimore & Ohio the Lake Shore and the Chesapeake & Ohio The ownership of this stock of course, means control of the Hocking Valley and to get this control, it would be necessary for Hawley and his associates to get the big systems to let go their stock The common stock has been selling at about ninety-two to ninety-three, the interest rate is four per cent

According to report circulated here Hawley has put up $2 000 000 to bind the deal Hawley has bought and sold several railways It was thought he wanted to get the Chesapeake & Ohio to sell it but developments have indicated a purpose to hold onto it and establish a Hawley system

The Hocking Valley runs from Toledo to Pomeroy The K & M from Corning to Charleston, West Virginia

Great secrecy has been maintained about the deal for the reported sale It was said yesterday that no official information would be given out concerning it until October 5 the date of the Hocking Valley's annual meeting

Efforts to get into communication yesterday with President Monsarrat were fruitless—Ohio State Journal

R M Baldwin, for the last few months trainmaster of this division of the Erie, is to receive a promotion within a short time according to a rumor current in local railroad circles The rumor has it that Mr Baldwin is to be made superintendent of the Wyoming division in New York state to fill a vacancy caused by some changes in the Empire state It is not included in the rumor who will be Mr Baldwin's successor Mr Baldwin has been on this division during the summer only and during his short term has made many friends

Hocking Valley freight No 73 was laid out here nearly all day because of the derailment of the engine about 5 o'clock Monday The engine was pulling back to its train on the siding and ran through the derail just south of the Big Four crossing The wrecking crew came up from Columbus about noon and worked several hours before the engine was replaced on the track

The Big Four has added another local to work between Bellefontaine and Marion The new train made its first run Monday Heretofore two locals have been doing the work both turning here One ran between here and Galion the other between here and Bellefontaine The new local will do all the pick-up work between the terminals and the regular locals will attend to all the switching.

POLICE COURT.

Walter Blitz, Charles Miller Ernest Smith, Oscar Bikes and Harry Smith are confined in jail in Mt Gilead on a charge of having burglarized the general store of B F Conklin, at Edison Tuesday morning Three of the five under arrest are under twenty years of age and have confessed their guilt They gave their home as being in West Virginia but the Mt Gilead officers believe they are from Marion

Some section men noticed the five men in a cornfield north of Edison, Tuesday evening, and as they had been acting suspiciously, the section men reported it to the authorities at Edison The arrest of the five robbers soon followed and many articles taken from the store were found in their possession All of the members of the gang confessed to being implicated in the robbery They were given a hearing before Squire Kaufman, Wednesday afternoon and their bonds fixed at $500 each in default of which they were taken to jail to await the action of the grand jury

A young man named Ernest Smith was sent to the Mansfield reformatory from Marion some time ago and has been out a short time on parole Whether the Ernest Smith implicated is the same is not known The names of the other members of the gang are not familiar to Chief Cornwell

William Shoup who was arrested at the Hotel Nordica Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock on suspicion of having held up and robbed Albert Miller of Columbus of fourteen dollars was released from custody Wednesday afternoon While the police were certain that they had the right man and Miller was positive that Shoup was the man who did the job Shoup remained firm in his story that he knew nothing about the hold-up and as there was not sufficient proof of his guilt he was released

Shoup carried address cards of several shops in various surrounding places and it is the opinion of the local officers that he makes a living by traveling around and holding people up He was caught in several lies and is believed to be wanted at other places Miller was held up at the point of two revolvers but the revolvers were not found in the possession of Shoup The police are of the opinion that he had an accomplice to whom he gave the guns and money or else planted them to avoid suspicion in case he was arrested

John Carlin filed an affidavit in the mayor's court Tuesday afternoon charging John Bodman with stealing an old phaeton valued at five dollars The theft is alleged to have been made September 17 from the yard of the repair shop of William Faulkner located at the rear of Clary's blacksmith shop Bodman claimed he purchased the rig for seventy-five cents from a couple of fellows whom he did not know Bodman was arrested Wednesday evening by Officer Thompson and taken before the mayor for hearing He pleaded guilty to the charge against him After securing with Carlin by paying five dollars the value of the rig as stated in the affidavit Bodman was released without a fine the costs of the case being assessed against him

A PERMANENT GRAND JURY FOR THE COUNTY

Scheme To Expedite Matters in Court

EXAMPLE GIVEN BY ALLEN COUNTY

Grand Jurors Receive Pay Only for the Days They Are Actually in Service, but Are Subject to Call of the Court at All Times—What the Prosecutor Thinks.

The Marion county grand jury may become a permanent institution in that, instead of being discharged by the court immediately after having met and ground out its grist of cases, it is likely to continue in its official capacity—ready to be summoned at any time by the prosecutor—until the end of each term of court

Prosecuting Attorney Charles L Justice is in favor of a grand jury system for the county that will continue from one term of court to another He will ask the court to continue the official life of the present grand jury

"I rather like the way they do it over in Allen county," says the prosecutor Over there one grand jury holds from one term until another Of course it may be that Allen county has a bigger grind than we have in this county and has to do it in order to expedite matters but the full court term grand jury is a pretty nice thing to have"

Petit grand jurors would receive pay for days only when they actually rendered service and not for the entire term of court Prosecuting Attorney Justice says such a legal body would obviate the trouble of getting special grand juries together in the event of the necessity for one arising

It has been the custom in the past for the local court to discharge the grand jury after the foreman has made his report The next grand jury will not convene until January when another term of court will open

LONG-DELAYED REPORT AS TO CRAMER DEATH

Findings of Coroner Hinklin Are Now Expected.

Grand Jury Considers the Case During Its Sessions—The Cause of Death of Mrs. John Cramer Still a Mystery to Her Friends.

Now that the grand jury has considered and refused to return any indictment in the case of Mrs. John Cramer, who died several weeks ago under mysterious circumstances, Coroner William H. Hinklin is expected to file his long-delayed report of his findings.

Officially the cause of Mrs. Cramer's sudden death has never been determined, although two post-mortem examinations have been held, the last being at the grave in the Pleasant Hill cemetery. Following the disgraceful scene in which the doctors figured when the body was exhumed, Coroner Hinklin said he was satisfied in his own mind as to what produced death and was ready to make his verdict public, but weeks have elapsed since then and he has not yet filed a report of his findings.

It will be recalled that Dr J. B. Taylor, who was called in just before the woman died, signed a death certificate to the effect that she had died of narcotic poisoning. Drs. H. J. Lower and C. G. Smith were employed by the coroner to perform an autopsy and in a preliminary statement Dr. Lower denied that she had died of narcotic poisoning, but failed to say what caused her death. Then followed the bitter wrangle between the different physicians that had been called into the case.

Mrs. Cramer, who had been estranged and later reconciled to her husband, died after taking medicine given her by Dr. Henry W. Sager for an acute nervous condition.

The death of Mrs. Cramer is as much of a mystery today as it was two months ago.

VARIED EXPERIENCE IN LOCAL COURTS

Various Charges Made in Shooting Case.

Mrs. Gertrude Bacher, who claims to have accidentally shot fourteen-year-old Willis Bowles, near Agosta, several weeks ago, has had a rather remarkable experience in the courts up to date. In the first place she was arrested on a warrant charging her with shooting with intent to kill young Bowles.

Mrs. Bacher, who is the wife of William Bacher, pleaded not guilty to this charge in the court of Justice Charles H. Conley and, following a preliminary trial, was held to the grand jury on a charge of assault. On testimony presented to the grand jury by Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice, however, she was indicted for "pointing firearms and discharging the same, and thereby injuring Willis Bowles."

A daughter was born, Tuesday, to Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Monnette, of Likens pike.

A daughter was born, Wednesday, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Tunison of Wilson avenue.

GOD SEND US MORE MEN LIKE JOHNSON

The death of Governor John A Johnson of Minnesota announced Tuesday closed a career which could have been possible only in the United States For in an older more artificial civilization he would have been held to the lowly environment into which he was born John Johnson was no child of fortune no pampered heir to great wealth As Judge Ezra Taylor once phrased it he had the important advantages of early poverty"

Here was the son of Swedish immigrants unlettered and having only the capital of industry and brawn and the ambition which sent them forth from the homes of their fathers to follow the Star of Liberty shining over the western world They builded their little home in the then obscure village of St Peter in Minnesota and there on July 25 1861, was added to the already large family the son now so sincerely mourned Upon him twelve years later devolved the care of the family the father being taken by death The struggle was long and hard but the boy was bright ambitious and with the thrift and industry so characteristic of his race He found work in a drug store and at an early age became its proprietor His school going days had been few but he found time to supplement the little learning then acquired by study and wide reading

Through this reading he found his vocation and felt that he had reached his goal in life when he became the owner and editor of his home paper the St Peter Herald But his horizon broadened and his energy never flagged He served in the state soldiery with such moderate distinction as his opportunities afforded Of course he took part in the political activities of his home and state No other course would have been possible to a man of his character and beliefs He grew strong and big in his own locality and was sent to the state senate

He was no radical He was not an extremist in any direction He was a sane man broad minded level headed entertaining no illusions not seeking to vizualize Utopian visions but with faith in the people and supreme confidence in himself and in the sincerity of his desire to serve

He was honest and unselfish and capable and the people learned to trust him Nominated for governor of his state by a party almost hopelessly in the minority his election was a personal and not a party victory and reelection twice after that when the majority of his associates on his party tickets were defeated proved that his hold upon the confidence and affection of his fellow citizens was not weakened by his performances or through disappointment over his official course

Governor Johnson's memory belongs to the state of Minnesota There his battles were fought and his service rendered The issues for which he contended and with which he was largely identified were local He came into prominent relation with national matters only through the efforts of a respectable minority of his party to make him a rival of Mr Bryan as the standard bearer of the Democratic party and through occasional utterances and essays upon matters of national policy He leaves therefore no record of great constructive statesmanship and has achieved no place in the great national Hall of Fame but he will be remembered as the lad sprung from poverty who worked his way sturdily into the hearts of his people who served them faithfully in high station and who despite the fact that he had made his own way over almost insurmountable obstacles by sheer force of will and laborious effort was a modest cultured American gentleman of the highest ideal

God send us more men like John A Johnson

MARION DAY PROGRAM WILL BE ATTRACTIVE

A New Feature of the Marion County Fair

MERCHANTS ENDORSE MARION DAY PLAN

A Meeting of the Merchants Is Held, Tuesday Evening,—A Move To Have the Schools Dismissed for the Day—Stores of the City Will Close During the Afternoon

At the suggestion of Secretary I A Knapp of the Marion County Agricultural society the executive committee of the Marion Merchants association held a meeting Tuesday night and endorsed the plan of a Marion day at the county fair this year

Wednesday of next week will go down in the fairs history as Marion day and every effort will be made to make the day a red letter event All the stores will close at 1 o'clock and reopen at 5 o'clock the same afternoon in order that all the employes may attend the fair

Secretary Knapp says that special attractions in the way of motor cycle races and novel exhibits of all kinds will be added to the regular program on Marion day

A movement looking to the dismissal of the public schools on that day has also been started and it is probable that the fair managers will ask the board of education to hold no school on that day when the board meets in regular session next Monday night In the past it has been customary to dismiss the schools for two days of the fair and the fair managers have every reason to believe that the board of education will follow this custom again this year

Wednesday will be made a half holiday in Marion and the indications are that the attendance at the fair on that day will break all records A number of the big manufacturing institutions will close down to give the employes an opportunity of attending the big county show

"If Marion day proves a success this year and we have every reason to believe that it will with favorable weather be a fixture as long as the county gives fairs said Secretary Knapp Wednesday

Next Tuesday will record the opening of the fifty ninth fair

THE TAIL END OF A BIG HURRICANE

Wind Travels at Fifty or Sixty Miles an Hour

The tail end of the West Indian hurricane struck Marion Tuesday night and Wednesday the velocity of the wind being estimated to be fifty or sixty miles an hour Tuesday the south was swept by the terrible storm followed later by a tidal wave and the toll of death mounts into the hundreds

The wind blew so strong here that outbuildings were razed and heavy branches were twisted from many trees Signs were blown from their fastenings and hurled through the streets In the country a great deal of corn was blown down The damage throughout the county will amount to considerable

The strong wind was noticed Tuesday evening and gradually increased in velocity until 9 o'clock next morning when it reached its height The wind came from the south and southeast and kept up such a racket during the night that many people were unable to sleep

The windstorm was accompanied only by a very slight rainfall

A Special Day

At a meeting of the Marion county board of agriculture Tuesday evening it was decided to make Wednesday of fair week Soldiers day The management will extend the courtesy of the fair to the old soldiers of the county and the residents of the Waddell Ladies home and the Wolf Children's home

AKRON YOUNG MEN ARE MAKING LONG JOURNEY

Walking from Home in Akron to Seattle

THEY TAKE LUNCH IN CITY WEDNESDAY

Expect to Complete the Walk in a Little Over Five Months—Young Men Represent a Walking Club in Akron—Agreement Under Which Trip Is To Be Completed

Forest Crooks and Samuel E Mansfield both of Akron passed through the city Wednesday en route from Akron to Seattle Washington on a walking trip The two young men left the Y M C A at Akron Saturday morning and arrived in Marion Wednesday morning After a short visit at the local Y M C A building they secured lunch and left about 11 o'clock for Bellefontaine

The men are backed up by a walking club which has made them a unique proposition providing they make the trip within six months They are to secure the signatures of the mayors of certain places along which the route for the journey is mapped out and of the governors of the states where they find in capitals Both are prominent young men of Akron there are several provisos to the offer to make it a better inducement for the young men but which do not necessarily have to be fulfilled One is that they walk back to Washington and secure the signature of the president but it is hardly likely that they will accept the task

Another proposition is that Crooks is to swim the Mississippi at St Louis Crooks having gained considerable reputation as a swimmer The men carried only a small haversack with a few socks and handkerchiefs They are compelled to work for what they get along the road the money which they carry being used only in case of sickness They expect to complete the trip in a little over five months The walking club which made the inducement to the young men is to furnish them with mules and packs to cross Death valley

APOSTLES OF FAITH ARRIVE IN THE CITY

Alight from Bicycles and Begin [illegible] an Address.

ARGUMENT DRAWS CROWD OF CURIOUS

Crowd Stands in Respectful Silence for a Time—Policeman Orders a Clearance of the Sidewalk—Some of the Thoughts Offered Are Unusual—Spoke at Night.

Two long-haired, bewhiskered apostles of the Israelite colony at Benton Harbor, Michigan, alighted from their bicycles at the public square, Tuesday at 11 o'clock, and one of them began immediately to exhort the small crowd that gathered earnestly to contend for the faith that was once delivered unto the saints through the mercies of God."

"We see the signs of the times which is the fulfillment of prophecy, showing the time of the end," declared the tall Israelite missionary as the other stood meekly by his side. "But nearly all believers in Christendom verily believe the end will not be until the full end of dispensation, forgetting that Jesus said he would shorten the time for the elect's sake or no flesh could be saved."

The elect, the "apostle" explained, were the Israelite sect. Continuing he said:

"When we speak of the end we do not believe as many do, that this planet will be destroyed, but to the contrary, for it is written that one generation passeth away and another cometh, but the earth abideth forever. As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be; the world was destroyed, but not the planet. There was the end of the world, or age, or dispensation, and then came in the Jewish world or dispensation, until they rejected Christ and then we had the end of another world or age. There followed the Gentile age, and much of the scriptures speaks of the fullness of the Gentiles. As Paul declares, 'Blindness in part happened unto Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in. Jesus said, 'Until the time of the Gentiles be fulfilled,' and then should come the end.

"Now as Jesus said this dispensation was to be shortened for the elect's sake or no flesh could be saved, this is the time that Christ's sayings will have their full accomplishment, and there shall now be such a time of trouble as has never been—war among all nations and people until the wicked shall be entirely destroyed and the sons of God redeemed, spirit, soul and body, for Jesus said the meek shall inherit the earth. The earth shall then be refined; then she shall produce sevenfold and the whole earth shall bloom in bliss for a thousand years. Christ will reign on earth. The knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

The odd-looking follower of the new religion talked swiftly and distinctly. He never hesitated for a word and he used excellent English. Most people stood by in respectful silence, but as the speaker glided rapidly into the "mysteries of hell He said hell and heaven were both and heaven," he met some breakers, on earth and ridiculed the statement that heaven was above and hell below. He said: "Why, here they will tell you that heaven is off there somewhere into space. Over in Australia they'll tell you the same thing. That makes heaven in direct opposite directions and no soul could find another kindred soul."

A gray-haired man broke through the line. "My friend," he said, "which way did Elijah go when he went to heaven—did he go up or down?"

The Israelite apostle evaded the question, and a wordy argument followed. A policeman came along and made the men get off the sidewalk. "If you want to argue politics you'll have to keep from blocking the sidewalk," commanded the bluecoat.

The argument was transferred to the court-house esplanade. A third man defended the two Israelite speakers. "These men are right," he said to the gray-haired man, "heaven is not up or it ain't down; it's right here on earth and so's hell. Every man makes his own hell and his own heaven."

OBITUARY.

Arkason Earl Kunkle, son of Arkason and Margarette Kunkle, was born in Huntington, Indiana, August 24, 1885. He left for Topeka, Kansas, on his twenty-fourth birthday anniversary to accept a position as a boilermaker in the Santa Fe railroad shops. Thursday noon, September 16, just at closing time, he was prying loose a flue sheet from a locomotive which was being repaired. Throwing his weight upon his crowbar the flue sheet was torn loose and he was plunged to the floor. The flue sheet, which weighed 800 pounds, fell on top of him, fatally injuring him. As he was being taken from the ambulance to the hospital his life passed out. The loving parents are bereft of an affectionate and dutiful son and the two sisters and three brothers of a sympathetic and kind-hearted brother. His circle of friends will sadly miss him. We can only point you to the Savior Who stoops to listen and Who has said, "I will not let you desolate," and Who has left the gates ajar that hides your dead

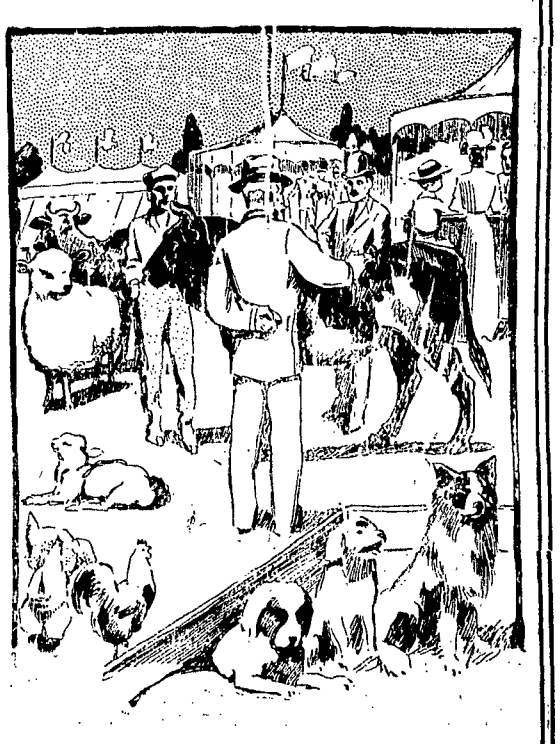
David Jones, one of the Huber Manufacturing company's oldest salesmen who had the misfortune to fall down stairs and was confined to his room for over a week, was able to be out Wednesday.

"Fair Week's Specials."



And now we can announce the completion of practically all this big new Store's "100% new" displays of fall & winter goods.

Our "merchandise records" show that the present stocks mount up into figures far above what we have carried in past seasons. And just think! everything is new & fresh & stylish.

We've hurried in large shipments & we've gotten the immense assortments into our shelves with a rush—so as to be fully ready to show you "all that's new"—during "Fair Week."

To the womenfolks at least—we can promise that a visit to this busy, progressive store will prove as interesting as the same time spent at the fair grounds.

Stylish & exclusive Fall Suits & Garments: great "Fair Week" Values.

The finest $15 Suits in Marion. Judged by any standards but our own—there is $20 worth of good material, careful workmanship and style in them.

One particularly good model which we can scarcely order in fast enough—is a strictly man-tailored suit built of an all-wool, hard-finished worsted. The coat is ¾ length—and lined with good satin to match. The skirt has plaited panels. In two shades of blue (navy and ducks' egg) gray, green and mode. You'll not find its equal in town at..... $15

Unequaled $20 Suits.

We have arranged to hold during "Fair Week"—a memorable sale of very beautiful and stylish tailored Suits—in a big range of styles—at only $20.

These exceptional suits are cut along very exclusive lines. Many of them are almost the styles of the minute—having come from New York during the past 4 days. $20.

At $18.50—the newest-style, plainly-tailored Suits with satin-lined long coats. Mostly all-wool serges and worsteds—in all good colors. $18.50.

$28.50 to $85 Suits.

We'll not attempt any description of our very extensive assortments of "the very finest tailored Suits." They're usually but one suit of a kind—our aim being to show nothing but entirely exclusive models at these prices—$28.50, $30, $35, $40, $45, $50 to $85.

$25 is a little price for these elegant Suits.

And that's what you'll say—or think—when you've seen what magnificent suits they are. The assortment is far greater than we've shown in other seasons.

Virtually all are strictly tailored—as nothing else is wanted by stylishly dressed folks. The rare beauty lies principally in the new colors and coarse weaves. Priced $25.

At $12.50—exceedingly smart tailored suits with long nearly-fitted coats—in good all-wool cloths and lined with good quality satin. Special at $12.50.

Tailored Dresses $12.50

$12.50 is a wonderfully attractive price for such beautiful serge dresses. They are the very newest "Moyen Age" (long-waisted) models—the bodice buttoning down the side—and finished with satin collar and cuffs. In 6 new colors..... $12.50

Handsome long outer Coats are $15.

Among a big lot of other garments—came these remarkably good $15 Coats. We've never seen garments at $15 half as attractive! The styles are absolutely correct to the smallest detail. And such splendid diagonal homespuns or coarse twilled serges seldom grace coats that sell within $5 of the price of these.

"Moire" silk Raincoats at $15—a pretty vogue; the using of rubberized "moire" silk for the latest raincoats! Roomy double-breasted garments—with high protecting storm collars. In navy blue, gray, brown, green or black. $15.

$5 Jackets—two unusually good jackets—really exceptional values—are simply and plainly tailored. One is all-wool broadcloth; the other, light weight kersey—with mannish coat collar and sleeves. In black or tan. Either of them—$5.

Marion's best Dress Goods Store offers great lines of new 50c & $1 Fabrics

We have always featured the largest and best assortments of $1 Dress Goods in Marion. A simple list of some of the newest weaves is barely all that we can mention here. In a manner, though—it will indicate what a splendidly varied showing we have.

50-inch serges—50-inch chiffon Broadcloths—Ottoman, Epengleine and Bengaline weaves—Coteles—Prunellas—Poplins—Henriettas—Panamas—etc. And of course we carry all of the new colors. Many of our best $1 fabrics—are marked in most stores $1.25 a yard.

Here are some of the special 50c Cloths.

All are especially good 50c Dress Goods. Plenty fine enough, you will find them, for pretty tailored dresses or suits, skirts or waists Among the best selling materials are the herringbone and striped "worsteds"—sturdy all-wool herringbone "serge"—storm "serge"—covert suitings—silky Henriettas—Batistes—striped Prunellas—Shepherd checks, etc. Easily an incomparable showing at our price—only 50c a yard!

Our own special $1.50 French Broadcloth—has all of that magnificent lustre and the permanent finish—which it seems no American maker can impart to his cloth. Its weight is exactly right for either the 1-piece tailored dress or the jacket suit. Black, taupe, tan, brown, wine and raspberry shades. $1.50 yard.

A special offer of our best $1.50 quality black taeffta silk at $1 (during "Fair Week" only, please remember). It's an extra fine taffeta from the best vegetable dyed Italian stock, 36 inches wide. $1 instead of $1.50.

Our $1.25 (yard-wide) "Cashemire de Soie, in black and colors, is another very special item.

The newest Sweaters $2.50, $3.50 & $3.98

Three of the most popular sweaters we've ever carried! All wool, of course—and in very pretty fancy weaves. The size range is unbroken—in white, gray and cardinal. There's exceptional value in them at $2.50, $3.50 and $3.98.

At $5—very heavy all-wool "Sweaters" in plain colors and such combinations as white-and-tan, brown-and-tan, cardinal-and-gray, etc.

The $6.50 coat sweaters—are made by hand from the highest grade pure wool—and have turn-back cuffs and patch pockets. Plain and two-color effects.

Misses' wool sweaters—white, red and gray $1.75 and $2.

Long Kimonos at $1.

Just opened up a new lot of charming full-length kimonos—in very dainty colors. Made of warm fleeced-back "Persian" printed flannelettes. A printed border runs down the front and edges sleeves. Priced $1

"Fall-weight" Vests & Union Suits.

New 25c long-sleeved lisle vests with crocheted tape necks—and at 25c and 50c the medium heavy knit Corset Covers with long sleeves.

Fall-weight lisle cotton "Union Suits"—long sleeves and ankle length. "Forest Mills" brand at 50c and $1—"Munsing at $1.

Our cozy 2d floor "Rest Room" is for your benefit. Use it all you please.

EFFORT TO MANDAMUS THE COUNTY AUDITOR

"Conscience" Money Is Basis for a Suit

County Commissioners Want Money Placed in the Pike Fund—The Auditor Refuses To Comply with the Request—Judge Babst Grants a Divorce—Court Notes

At the direction of the county commissioners Prosecuting Attorney Charles L Justice filed a second suit in the common pleas court Monday morning to mandamus County Auditor Charles L Allen to certify that $500 conscience money is in the county treasury to the credit of the pike fund A writ of mandamus was issued and the county auditor is to answer Monday morning at 9 o'clock October 4

In his petition Prosecutor Justice sets up that on or about January 26 1909 an unknown citizen forwarded $500 by mail to County Treasurer W C Wotring with the statement that he owed the county that amount It is further related that February 6 the board of county commissioners accepted the gift and ordered the amount certified into the treasury to the credit of the pike fund but that the auditor has contrary to law refused to make the proper certification

Last week the prosecuting attorney brought mandamus proceedings to compel the auditor to certify that the sum of $2 800 is in the treasury to pay for a steam roller contracted for by the commissioners from a Chicago firm

Judge Daniel Babst granted a decree of divorce and $700 alimony Monday to Cora Gertrude Ingle who brought her suit against James Arthur Ingle July 1 She charged three years wilful absence The Ingles were married December 24 1903

In the suit of the Franklin Brewing company of Columbus against Philip H Knickle and others Philip H Knickle through Attorneys Scofield & Durfee Friday afternoon filed an answer setting up a general denial Answers were also filed by William Lasch and W C Buchman admitting that they had purchased beer from the plaintiff but claiming that the terms of the contract had been broken by the plaintiff The contract stipulated It is claimed by them that when an order of beer was delivered it should be paid for before another shipment was made The amount sued for now they claim is for beer shipped after Philip H Knickle had made default in payment under the terms of the contract

The grand jury reported at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning returning nine indictments all sub rosa So far as is known this is the first time in the history of the local courts that a grand jury under the direction of a prosecuting attorney has reported making public none of its indictments

Prosecutor Charles L Justice notified County Clerk W W Klinefelter to keep each indictment secret until he was directed to make the jury's findings public

Twenty two cases were considered thirteen of this number were rejected Among those considered including one for murder two for criminal assault and one for embezzlement were

William Stiffler assault Earl Hill and Charles Campbell petit larceny Earl Umpher receiving stolen property Harry Stevens furnishing intoxicating liquors to a minor Lulu Johnson criminally assaulting own daughter George F Hammer murder Jerome Hostetter assault David Hemmeger non support John Ormiston burglary Charles Bradford assault Harry Fabion criminal assault Robert F Jones non support Gertrude Bacher assault Bert Swallom defrauding boarding house keeper Lester Court assault and battery C O Clegg embezzlement

The grand jury did not indict Egbert the case of Anna Kibbe whose twin babies were found dead in a suitcase at the home of the girl's grandfather John Fahl on Franconia avenue several weeks ago

The grand jurors were F C Brown foreman Marsh Trey William Cubler John Stettler Thomas Nixon Phillip Schwartz F M Dotson P L Elder Otis Howser C F Merchant Oscar Sharples J Austin Reed W B Lee C W Criswell and W C Quigley

Following the arrest of Harry Johnson on two warrants in the Fuller Johnson criminal assault case Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock Prosecutor Justice permitted County Clerk Klinefelter to give out the list of indictments Those indicted are

John Ormiston burglary and disforcing entrance into safe of John Anleon Brother & Company Earl L Harry Stevens and M O N furnishing intoxicating liquors to minors George F Hammer murder in second degree the indictment reading that he unlawfully purposely and maliciously killed Roy Cubbison June 1 Gertrude Bacher pointing fire arms at and discharging the same and injuring thereby Willis Bowles August 18 Charles Bradford assault with intent to kill David McClain, July Michael Elias selling cigarets to minor under sixteen years Alfred B Wilhelm September 7 and Fuller Johnson criminal assault

The divorce petition of May Hoyde against Gustave Hoyde was dismissed by Judge Babst Tuesday afternoon A contract of property division was filed the plaintiff receiving two lots $ 50 in cash and alimony of fifteen dollars a month for the support of the children

John H Clark has been appointed a member of the committee to prepare and file charges if such a course is deemed proper against John D DeGolier whose conduct as a practicing attorney at the Marion county bar has been questioned He will succeed William E Scofield who resigned as a result of his election to the common pleas bench The other members of the committee are Fred L Guthery and Grant F Monser

Judge William E Scofield mounted the bench for the first time as the successor of the late Boston G Young and called the court docket Wednesday Before a large attendance of attorneys He ordered that the persons indicted by the grand jury be arraigned Saturday morning and assigned the following cases for trial

October 4 State of Ohio against M O'Neil furnishing intoxicating liquors to a minor and State of Ohio against Harry Stevens indicted for the same offence

October 11 Harry Kennedy indicted for criminal assault

October 12—Charles H Hoffman embezzlement

October 13 Irving I Smith embezzlement

Judge Scofield granted a decree of divorce prayed for in the plaintiff's petition in the suit of Arthur L Weed against Sarah F Weed Wednesday The plaintiff charged his wife with gross neglect of duty His petition will be found and set up that he was married to the defendant at Ashley March 8 1891 that she was untidy about her housekeeping and that he frequently had to cook his own meals when she would be gone for days at a time

The following indictments on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Charles L Justice were nolled by Judge Babst Tuesday afternoon

Phillip Malo receiving stolen goods George Keifer carrying concealed weapons Mac Barcus petit larceny Cleston C Johnson abandonment of minor child William Croft and Fred McPeck disturbing an assembly of persons and Edward O Young non support

All of the foregoing cases have been hanging fire in the local courts for years

S J Wise who was indicted for presenting false orders granted some bridges for the county commissioners and was alleged to have worked the commissioners for more pay than was due him but no pay could be found to convict him

Cleston C Johnson indicted several years ago for abandoning his illegitimate child is now married and so is the girl who caused his arrest

Coroner William H Hamlin filed his finding in the death of fourteen year old Benjamin Osborn son of Mr and Mrs John O born Tuesday afternoon He says death was due to paralysis of the heart caused by an injury from some external blow possibly the hand or bars of a bicycle producing a gangrene poisoning of abdomen and intestines

The only testimony submitted was that of the boy's father who told of the boy having ridden a wheel The coroner also presented a bill for $ for the autopsy performed by Dr C C Smith

The Osborn youth died without a surgeon having been called his parent being Christian Scientists and the coroner was notified

In the suit of Luther O Briggs and Otto C Briggs executors of Silas W Briggs against Eugene and Clarence W Briggs partners doing business as Briggs Brothers Attorneys Jacobs & Donithen filed an amended petition in the common pleas court Wednesday Judgment of $1 111 20 is asked against the defendants for the rental of farm land owned by the late Silas W Briggs their father This is an action in which all the parties are brothers

Answers and cross petitions have been filed by Fred L Guthery and John R Severns the latter being the guardian of James W and Chloe I Severns in the partition suit of Lee S Durfee against John N Rizor and others in which cause No 11008 has been consolidated with cause No 11009 and both continued as one No 11008 Mr Guthery sets up a two third interest by the purchase in the premises described in the petition the property consisting of 145 acres of land in Bowling Green township Marion county and Hale township Hardin county

Married when thirteen years of age Dora Geiser was granted a decree of divorce from Henry Geiser by Judge William E Scofield Wednesday afternoon She was married to the defendant July 1 1898

It took Judge Scofield just fifteen minutes to hear the testimony and write a decree for the plaintiff Her suit was not contested She charged three years wilful absence and gross neglect

How old were you when you were married asked her attorney I F Myers

I was only thirteen years old replied Mrs Geiser My husband had been employed on my father's farm in Michigan In my girlish fancy I thought he was a great man and I loved him My father opposed the match but we were determined to get married and married we did

Judge Scofield asked a few questions then gave the plaintiff a decree forever $500 alimony and custody of their three year old son Russell

The defendant resides in Roscommon county Michigan

Gottlieb F Beer was granted a decree of divorce from Margaret Cowin Beer by Judge William E Scofield Wednesday afternoon He claimed that he was married to the defendant March 1 1910 at Caledonia and that without provocation on his part she left him February 1 1909 The case was heard several months ago by the late Judge Boston G Young but we never passed on by him

Della Beer through Attorneys Krohn & Donithen brought an action for divorce from Joseph W Beer Thursday in the common pleas court The Beers were married May 14 1900 in this city She claims that August 1 1908 the defendant struck her and called her such vile name that he left him in the summer of 1908 A temporary injunction restraining the defendant from encumbering or disposing of his property was granted

An action for alimony was begun in the common pleas court Thursday by Attorney Mouser & Mahoney for Evelin Powell against Henry Powell The petition sets up that the plaintiff was married to the defendant December 18 1907 at Findlay that they lived together on the defendant's farm in Hancock county until she was ordered away November 1 1908 She says he treated her in a brutal manner by constant swearing and threats A temporary restraining order prevents the defendant from encumbering or disposing of his property valued at $6 000 was granted

In the suit of Fred Turner against Erasmus J Ford Jacoby & Donithen filed the answer of Charles Adams and F J Speer in the common pleas court Thursday They admit that an injunction was granted restraining the plaintiff from constructing the Linwood free turnpike but deny all other allegations

In the matter of Raymond H Martin against the Michigan Mutual Life Insurance company the plaintiff as master commissioner was allowed $48 by Judge Scofield Thursday morning Attorneys Grissinger & Guthery as counsel for the plaintiff were allowed $110 The proceeds of the Martin property sold at sheriff's sale were ordered distributed according to law

ROAD MAKING MONEY UNDER RECEIVERSHIP

The C, D & M Found Prosperous by Court

THE RECEIVERS AND OTHERS IN COURT

Judge Kinkead Seeks Explanation of Some Transactions Not Plain to the Court—But Little Is Gained by the Conference Held in Columbus Today—Explanation Offered

In response to orders from Judge Kinkead of the common pleas court E M West and George M Whysall co receivers for the Columbus Delaware & Marion Railway company John G Webb president of the company and attorneys representing the various interests appeared before the court in Columbus Thursday

A partial report had been made to the court through the receivers by C A Cover and John J McKnight expert accountants appointed to examine the books of the company and the court wanted enlightenment on certain items

Entries on the company's books showed that under the Webb management before the company went into the hands of a receiver items for excessive use of coal for the Marion power plant in course of construction and interest on the bond issue for the power plant amounting to about $100 000 had been charged as indicating additions to property and not to expense The court wanted an explanation of this Why all explained that the power plant was not completed and that until it was this would be charged to construction and not to operating account which he declined was authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission and the Ohio railroad commission

Minutes of the Marion Railway Light & Power company show $50 000 worth of bonds issued to John G Webb for service but there is no record of them in the transfer to the holding company the Columbus Delaware & Marion company There is also said to be $100 000 worth of first mortgage bonds unaccounted for in the transfer to the holding company None of the matters were cleared up at the hearing

The court said the road was making money under the receivership

LINCOLN PARK IS TOO WET FOR BIG REUNION

Old Soldiers Gather, Today, at the Court House

FIGHTING OVER THE BATTLES OF WAR

All Plans Are Changed Because of the Inclemency of the Weather Veterans Are Disappointed in Not Being Able To Use the Park, but All Have a Very Good Time

The equinoctial storm rendered Lincoln park too wet for the scene of the annual reunion and picnic of the soldiers of Marion county Thursday but it failed to put a damper on the enthusiasm of the veterans who gathered at the courthouse and again fought the battles of the war

The trails of the boys of '61 are rapidly thinning but in spite of the rain many came from all parts of the county to mingle with their comrades and to repeat the stories of valor and sacrifice

It had been planned to march to the park from the court house at 10 o'clock Thursday with the Marion City band at the head of the procession and Old Glory waving along the marching line but the weather upset all the well laid plans of the veterans and Cooper Post No 117 G A R quietly came to the decision to hold all the exercises at the county building

If the veterans were sorely disappointed their grizzled countenances failed to show anything but the pleasure of meeting one another It was a day of general handshaking The court house corridors were filled with veterans all wearing badges on their uniforms of blue freely intermingling with the old soldiers were the Sons of Veterans and Soldiers of the Spanish American war The well filled baskets that had been brought for the park were taken to the G A R room in the courthouse and there the good ladies of the Women's Relief corps and their daughters prepared a feast for all Great long tables were trimmed in the corridors and those who sat down to them had just as good a time as though the sun was shining brightly without and they were in the cool shade of the park

Everything in the way of a program was postponed until after dinner and the morning was passed in renewing old acquaintances and the telling of personal experiences

At 1 30 o'clock this afternoon the veterans and their friends repaired to the court room where a number made addresses Major S N Titus presided as chairman Among the speakers were Rev Joseph Dennis, pastor of St Mary's church Judge William E Scofield Rev J P Gunnin pastor of the First Baptist church Grant F Monser and Rev J W Miles of the United Brethren church

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES AN OPINION

County Commissioners Can Not Buy Farm

NO PROVISION IN LAW FOR EXPENSE

Commissioners Wish To Buy the George L Bender Farm and Give It to the Waddel Children's Home Daniel Seiter Opposes Purchase No Money for Buying Farm

Prosecuting Attorney Charles L Justice has received a written opinion from Attorney General U G Denman to the effect that the Marion county commissioners have no authority to purchase a farm for the Waddel Children's home at a cost of $8 700 The attorney general holds that the amount in excess of the sum allowed to be expended by statute

Members William H Holverstott and Joseph Gillespie of the old board of commissioners which passed out of existence last Monday were in favor of purchasing the George L Bender farm of sixty five acres adjoining the children's home place to the north and donating it to the home trustees A gift of this kind would make the children's home farm about 120 acres

Daniel Seiter who was then a member of the board opposed the proposition

County Auditor Charles L Allen was consulted as to the condition of the county fund by Commissioner Holverstott who said that the board was talking about buying the Bender farm for about $9 000 He was informed by the auditor that the amount of money for the farms purchase would not be available on account of the increased expenses arising from the quadrennial appraisement and other heavy drains on the fund

Prosecutor Justice was then asked for an opinion and he took it up with the attorney general who declared that where an appropriation of $6 000 has been made to such institutions the commissioners may authorize an additional expenditure of $ 00 but in this case the amount proposed to be given is in excess of both these sums The attorney general further points out that no donation has been given the Waddel Children's home heretofore

The old board of commissioners also considered the advisability of buying more land for the county infirmary but a definite action was never taken
